SENATE TAKES NEW ATTITUDE IN SMITH CASE

Reaction to Hasty and Impulsive Methods Suggested at Outset

CAN'T BAR APPOINTEE

Small Has Right to Name Smith; Credentials Must Be Accepted

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright 1926, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington — Suddenly there has been a "change" in sentiment at the capital on the subject of seating Col. Frank Smith of Illinois. The truth is there has been no reversal of opinion as to the merits of the case but a natural reaction to the hasty and impulsive methods that were suggested at the outset, for dealing with the case.

The Republican leaders are responsible for the decision to handle the Smith contest with more care. To refuse a man a seat in the senate without giving him a chance to present his case was never likely to have been approved by a majority of the senate. To have done so would have established a dangerous precedent. All questions that have ever arisen about the qualifications of members or the validity of election returns are referred to a committee before which the contending candidates or their counsel have an opportunity to present evidence and argue their case. It is now being insisted that at no time did anybody intend to deprive Colonel Smith of that privilege but that he was to have his credentials held up and then they were to be referred to a committee.

SENTIMENT CRYSTALLIZED

All that has happened is that sentiment has crystallized on procedure. There is nothing wrong with the credentials Colonel Smith will present. The governor of Illinois will present. The governor of Illinois, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator McKinley, so the senate has virtually come to the conclusion that the credentials must be accepted. Then the point arises as to whether Colonel Smith should be permitted to retain his seat. In effect the senate now is being outlined is one of expulsion.

For if the senate after hearing a report from a senate committee decides that Mr. Smith has violated a code of ethics and made himself unfit to hold office, then the denial of his seat which would require a two-thirds vote would follow. The joint report presented to the committee and the report is made to the senate that a two-thirds vote will be mustered. There are some authorities who contend that a majority is all that is necessary but the defenders of Colonel Smith will as difficult as possible for the senate to unseat him.

CASE AFFECTS OTHERS

Colonel Smith's case in a way affects both Senator Gould of Maine, and Senator Vane of Pennsylvania. And each of the latter two has strong friends in the senate who are prepared to wage a battle for the principle that all the senate can be judged of is the election itself and not what happens in a primary or prior thereto.

Although the Newberry case hangs over senators as a sword of Damocles and has been used effectively to prevent renomination and reelection of senators who voted to seat the Michigan senator, there has been recognition since then that doubts may exist as to the true power of the senate.

DIVINITY STUDENTS PLEDGE THEMSELVES TO REFUSE TO FIGHT

Milwaukee — (AP) — Members of the National Conference Theological students pledged themselves Tuesday never to fight in any future war that the United States may enter.

Their action was taken at their meeting in conjunction with the National Christian students conference, which opened its sessions here Wednesday with 3,000 delegates from colleges and universities throughout the United States.

"We believe that a higher patriotism to the United States and humanity demand not only the refusal and abolition of war," the theological students declared in a resolution, "but also we do as a conference refuse to a sanction or lend our support to any future war."

Condemnation of compulsory military training in colleges and support of the eighteenth amendment was voted in other resolutions passed by the divinity students.

LITTLE LOSS BY DIVERSION, NEWTON SAYS

Upholds Chicago in Controversy Over Diversion from Lake Michigan

Chicago — (AP) — Diversion of water from Lake Michigan at Chicago was defended in an address Wednesday before the Chicago Association of Commerce by C. A. Newton, of St. Louis, Mo., representative in congress, who also pointed to three other diversions more dangerous to lake levels.

The Chicago diversion has lowered the lake level less than six inches and will not lower levels more if continued for a century, Mr. Newton said.

Levels of Lakes Superior and Ontario have been raised to overcome diversions, he said, and similar processes would be successful if applied to the other lakes. Compensating works and dredging costing $15,400,000 would make up for the Chicago diversion and diversions in the Welland canal, Black Rock canal and the St. Clair river, he said, using figures from a joint United States-Canada engineering report.

WELLAND CANAL CASE

The report, he pointed out, said opening of the new Welland ship canal would lower Lake Erie an additional eight inches, which with the lowering of fourteen inches attributed to the other diversions mentioned, would make a total lowering of twenty inches, less than six of which is chargeable to Chicago.

"There is no question before the American congress or the American public of greater importance to the whole United States than the question of diversion at Chicago," he said.

"This diversion makes possible for all time a great waterway from the Great Lakes system through the most productive area of the United States and out to the sea." The joint report should reassure shipping interests, he said, by showing diversion may be continued and levels restored.

FIRE CAPTAIN DIES IN AUTO COLLISION

Milwaukee — (AP) — Fire Captain Joseph Prier was killed and six firemen and two street car passengers injured Tuesday evening when a fire truck collided with a street car. The truck was going to a chimney fire. The injured were taken to the emergency hospital where one fireman was treated for concussion of the brain, another for concussion of the chest and left hip. The others suffered sprains, cuts and bruises of a less serious nature. Captain Prier, who was seated next to the driver and right at the point of the collision, died almost instantly.

GILLAN LAUDS PROGRESS MADE BY SOCIOLOGISTS

St. Louis — (AP) — In spite of false steps and frequent stumblings, sociology has gone on towards an understanding of a field neglected, but vital, said John Lewis Gillin, professor of sociology at the University of Wisconsin, in his presidential address Wednesday before the convention of the American Sociological society.

"It proceeds," he said, "on the hypothesis that it is possible to explore and understand social reality, the processes by which human relationships are formed and disintegrated. It proceeds in the faith that the formation and change of social institutions can be understood. It believes that it is possible to discover generalizations concerning human action under varying conditions. It proposes to borrow, invent and apply methods by which to discover the truth concerning social movement, social inertia and social change."

U. S. TAKES NO PART IN REVOLT--BORAH

ONLY PROTECT PROPERTY IN NEUTRAL ZONE

Diaz Troops Are Defeated in Battle With Forces of Dr. Sacasa

Washington, D. C. — (AP) — After a conference Wednesday with Secretary Kellogg, Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee, expressed himself as satisfied that so far as official reports show, the activities of American naval forces in Nicaragua had been confined strictly to the protection of American life and property.

The senator spent half an hour in Secretary Kellogg's office and is understood to have had access to communications exchanged with Rear Admiral Julian Latimer, now at Puerto Cabezas aboard his flagship, the cruiser Rochester.

DENIES INTERFERENCE

Reports from the admiral as to what transpired in connection with the landing of marines and bluejackets and diversions in the Welland canal, the statement made Tuesday at the White House that there had been no interference with the Sacasa Liberal faction leaders, as had been charged by Sacasa's representative here.

The Latimer reports say that Sacasa and his adherents came and no will in the neutral area around American property.

DIAZ IS DEFEATED

Managua, Nicaragua — (AP) — Victorious in a three day battle at Las Perlas, on the east coast of Nicaragua, the Liberal forces of Dr. Juan Sacasa are now threatening several strategic points leading to the interior.

The troops of the Conservative government of President Diaz who has been recognized by the United States were forced to retreat before the Liberals. The latter's government, under Dr. Sacasa, is recognized by Mexico.

CONSERVATIVES RETREAT

Advices from the fighting zone say 1,000 Conservative troops were opposed by 1,500 Liberals, of whom 300 were alleged to be Mexican soldiers or officers. The Conservatives ran out of ammunition and found their machine-gun fire no match for the 12 pieces of light artillery in the possession of the Liberals. A retreat was ordered, 400 men covering the rear, while the main body retired to the neutral zone of El Bluff. Of the 400 rear guards many were killed while the others were surrounded and captured. They were they will be guarded by the American naval forces who are maintaining the neutrality of the zone.

By their victory the Liberals gained access to the Escondido river, captured Fruta de Pan and began an attack on Monkey Ridge. If this strategic point is taken, it will give control of the river, along which American fruit companies operate. Other Liberal forces are proceeding to Rama, where there is a small Conservative garrison.

WALKER MAY CLEAN UP NEW YORK STAGE

Asks Owners to Take Steps to Remove Salacious Plays from Theatres

New York — (AP) — Mayor Walker, who recently imposed a 3 o'clock-in-the-morning curfew law on night clubs, has now taken up the task of cleaning up the New York stage. In a conference with theatrical producers he told them that legal censorship would follow unless the producers cooperated in an effort to keep their theatres free from salacious plays.

Promises of cooperation were made by the producers and it was generally regarded as possible that "a czar of Broadway" might evolve from the conference, holding a position similar to that of Will Hayes in the motion picture industry.

Les Shubert, William A. Brady, David Belasco, Daniel Frohman, Arthur Hopkins, Edgar Selwyn, John Golden, Gilbert Miller and Thomas Broadhurst were among those attending the conference. Florence Ziegfeld, George White and Paul Caron received an invitation but did not attend.

FEW CHANGES WILL BE MADE IN HUMAN RACE, EXPERT SAYS

Madison — (AP) — Human faces and bodies will be the same a million years from now, in the opinion of Stewart Weller, retiring president of the Paleontological society of America in an address Tuesday night before the Geological Society of America. Dr. Weller declared that the human species would undergo "little or no morphological changes in the centuries and millenniums to come, while a resident upon the earth."

"Man may suffer the loss of certain parts through disease but in all probability the man of the year 1,000,000 or 10,000,000 A. D. will be essentially what he is today as regards his physical form and organization," he said.

The wars, the struggles and the conflicts which engage us at this time are but the children's diseases of the race. Diseases of old age may come in the future, but these infantile ailments will doubtless be left behind."

CHICAGO GANG WAR CLAIMS 2, MORE VICTIMS

One Gangster Killed in Attempt to Enter Resort; Second Is Wounded

Dubuque, Iowa — (AP) — A flare-up of Chicago gangland warfare hit a notorious resort, the Bon Don, also known as "Black City," a short distance south of East Dubuque early Wednesday and resulted in the slaying of John Shea of Chicago, and the probable fatal wounding of "Salor" Laverne Johns, an East Dubuque resort keeper of Plattville, Wis.

Mike Allegretto, who recently came to East Dubuque from Chicago and purchased the Bon Don, did the shooting. He is under arrest. Allegretto, known as "Don Ton," asserts that Shea had made repeated threats to "get him." Shea came to the Bon Don at 3 o'clock Wednesday morning and rapped for admittance, according to information given the authorities at an inquest held Wednesday over the body of Shea. Allegretto went to the door and opened it, facing Shea who had his hands behind his back. Shea is said to have told him that he was there to "get" him and swung his arms around, with a gun in each hand.

Tried to Shoot

Testimony at the inquest was to the effect that the gun he first attempted to fire failed to go off, and before he was able to fire with the other one Allegretto had drawn and fired, killing Shea instantly. One bullet entered Shea's heart and the other hit him in the abdomen.

Marshal Frank Werner of East Dubuque, was summoned and was investigating the shooting of Shea when "Salor" Johns came to the place. Werner attempted to deny his admittance, saying he had no business there but Johns insisted on entering. Johns tried to push his way in past the marshal, according to testimony at the inquest, and the officer tried to push him back. As they were shoving each other Allegretto is alleged to have reached over the marshal's shoulder with a gun in hand and shot Johns. He fired two shots into the man, wounding him seriously. It is thought the wounds may prove fatal.

10 TO 15 KILLED IN CHILEAN TRAIN CRASH

Santiago, Calif. — (AP) — From ten to fifteen persons are believed to have been killed in a train wreck in a tunnel near Lota, southern Chile. The accident occurred Tuesday afternoon. A train, bound for Lota, became stalled in the tunnel when it struck an animal. The other train from Lota crashed into the stalled train.

Earth Like Billiard Ball; Adjusts Self To Strains

Madison — (AP) — Comparison of the earth to an ivory billiard ball, which adjusts itself to strains and stresses, was made here Tuesday by Dr. L. C. Chamberlain of the University of Chicago, before the Geological Society of America.

In Dr. Chamberlain's theory, the planet is an elastic sphere consisting of great segments, thousands of miles deep, resting upon a solid core and riveted together by bolts of lustrous material running through the different segments. This allows, he said, for the process of adjustment which is still going on, causing thrusts, grinding and upheavals creating liquid rock through the heat of friction.

According to his theory, the earth was formed by a merger of particles dispersed by the sun, with a star accidentally came close to it.

It was shown by Dr. W. T. Edmonds, head of the department of geology at the University of Minnesota, that gold and tin occur at the greatest depths in the earth while other metals are found in higher strata. In a paper on the "Zonal Arrangements of Metals" he pointed out that these two metals were succeeded upward towards the surface by copper, zinc, lead, tellurium, arsenic, antimony and mercury. The same arrangement is present horizontally, he said, verifying this occurrence of ores by examples in Canada, Germany and Great Britain. Dr. Edmonds brought together and classified into five groups all known ore deposits.

STREAMS ARE STILL RISING IN TENNESSEE

Predict River Will Reach Highest Stage in History at Nashville

Nashville, Tenn. — (AP) — With the crest of the floods in sight or past in other states, Tennessee streams continued to a record heights Wednesday with a record stage predicted for the Cumberland river at Nashville.

Predictions for a stage of 55 to 56 feet at Nashville were made Wednesday by government weather forecasters, when a stage of 54.5 feet was reached. More than 4,000 persons in the city already have been driven from their homes.

A relief fund has been started to provide for the refugees. Elsewhere in Tennessee the number of refugees was increasing hourly as smaller streams and the Tennessee river mounted. At Chattanooga the Tennessee had reached 38.4 feet with a stage of 41 feet predicted by Thursday.

Damage over the flooded states will mount into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. Farmers in all the flood district will suffer the greatest loss, crops being swept away and many head of livestock drowned.

FIND COUPLE SLAIN IN MAYVILLE HOME

Authorities Believe Man Killed His Wife and Committed Suicide

Fond du Lac — (AP) — The bodies of Mike Konjevich, 40, and his wife Eva, 26, both with throats slashed, were found Tuesday in the kitchen of their home at the Mayville Iron Works, four miles south of Mayville. Authorities suspect murder and suicide. Konjevich and his wife and Leslie, 3, the latter a son of Mrs. Konjevich by a former marriage, moved to Mayville three weeks ago from Monroe. The father was a mine worker for the Mayville Iron Works.

A couple Monday night is believed to have led to the double tragedy. The bodies were found side by side in the kitchen and authorities believe Konjevich and his wife quarreled, that he attacked her in the living room and then dragged the body to the kitchen, then put the child to bed and returned to the kitchen, committed suicide. The bodies were found when the child called to children to help him dress. Relatives of Mrs. Konjevich reside at Steubenville, Ohio.

KENOSHA OFFICER IS FOUND DEAD IN BED

Kenosha — (AP) — John Cyzak, 38, assistant chief of police of Kenosha, was found dead in his bed early Wednesday morning following an illness of only a day. The bullet lodged above his heart and was never removed.

Chilean Deputy Defends U. S. Stand On Nicaragua

Opponent Says "Yankee Boats Are Violating the Shores of Nicaragua"

Santiago, Chile — (AP) — Excitement reigned in the Chilean chamber of deputies Tuesday evening when the radical deputy Yencelao Sierra, denounced the United States for its course in Nicaragua. Ismael Edwards Matte, Liberal, opposed Sierra, whose speech was punctuated by shouts from the gallery. Deputy Sierra said it was his desire to protest against the frequent attacks made upon the United States in the Nicaraguan chamber. There was no precedent warranting the oft-repeated suspicion that the United States was imperialistic and that she desired, among other territories, the provinces of Tacna and Arica.

"I owe a debt of gratitude to the United States and its government for trying to solve the Tacna-Arica problem for us," he continued. "Its capital has been invested in our country and it has brought us civilization."

Amid shouts of disapproval from the gallery, Sierra declared that any one thoroughly understanding the case in Nicaragua would justify his words regarding that situation.

In opposing Sierra, Deputy Matte stated he was sorry to hear a Chilean deputy speak in such fashion "at the exact moment when Yankee boats are violating the shores of Nicaragua."

Referring to the Tacna-Arica problem and his own attitude which has been constantly against the Kellogg plan for neutralizing the provinces and ceding them to Bolivia, he added: "I have been opposed to the Kellogg plan because in it there is talk of neutralization, which the Chileans have a peculiar way of neutralizing."

JAPANESE PRINCE LANDS IN AMERICA

Second Heir of Late Mikado Guest of Nation; Arrived on Majestic

New York — (AP) — After a perilous run through a dense fog that blanketed New York harbor, Prince Yoshichiro Chichibu, enroute from Japan, arrived at the city Tuesday night. He will attend the funeral of his father, Emperor Yoshihito of Japan, and Stanley M. Bruce, prime minister of Australia were guests of America Wednesday. They were passengers aboard the Majestic which, with its 700 disgruntled passengers, were delayed off Quarantine Tuesday night by the fog. The two were taken off on a coast guard cutter and arrived on land shedding rain from their coats and sniffing at the choking fog.

Prince Chichibu will leave for Washington to pay his respects to the President before returning to his home. He will sail from San Francisco Jan. 2. The prince, who is a student at Oxford, had left England while his father was still alive and had hoped to reach home before he died. He is 24 years old and second in line to the Japanese throne. His greatest desire, while here, he said, was to visit a five and ten cent store. The magnitude of the business done, rather than the articles sold, has stirred his interest. He also talked knowingly of Babe Ruth and Gene Tunney.

DREAMS HE SAW HOUCK BODY; DOESN'T FIND IT

Washington, D. C. — (AP) — Determined not to pass up a single tip in their search for Mrs. Gladys W. Houck, wife of a hospital psychiatrist here, police Tuesday night worked on a theory hatched in a dream, but the dream ran true to form. A detective dreamed he saw Mrs. Houck's body lying on the roof of the Houck home, but when a brother officer went to the house top in a driving rain he saw nothing but the rain.

The trail of the woman, missing for two weeks, has led to nearby woods, sewers and the Potomac river, and also to Canton, Ohio, where Mrs. Houck has relatives, and Arkansas, where she was reported to have been seen several days ago.

SEES PROHIBITION AS CHIEF ISSUE IN 1928

St. Louis — (AP) — James K. Pollock, Jr., of the University of Michigan, predicted Wednesday at a meeting of the American Political Science association that prohibition might become the dominating issue of the 1928 election.

"It certainly has not disappeared as a political problem and it may affect at least the outcome of the 1928 election through various groups in states with large electoral votes," he said.

Okeechobee, Fla. — (AP) — A migration to Florida is being made by farmer descendants of Swedish and German residents of Ohio, Wisconsin and Iowa. Four hundred of them have purchased 10,000 acres near this town and 40 families are on their way to clear the land.

NAVY REPORT WITHHELD IN HOUSE PROBE

Representative M'Clinic Says Wilbur Refused Request for Document

Washington, D. C. — (AP) — The Pacific "war scare" that figured in the Fall-Doherty oil trial has come under inquiry by the house naval committee and Representative M'Clinic of Oklahoma, a Democratic member, said Wednesday that Secretary Wilbur had refused to give the committee confidential navy reports bearing on the subject.

Specifically, the Oklahoma representative disclosed the committee had requested the navy secretary to send it in confidence a report submitted by Admiral Gleaves while he was commander of the Asiatic fleet, dealing with the "belligerent attitude of Japan" a few years ago.

IN SECRET SESSION

The committee action was taken in secret session during consideration of Chairman Butler's proposal to build a new fleet of light cruisers to bring American naval strength up to a satisfactory ratio with that of Great Britain and Japan.

It was Admiral Gleaves' report that defense counsel in the Fall-Doherty trial sought, without success to secure from the navy department in support of the contention that the Pearl Harbor oil contract was entered into by the Doherty oil interests under stress of a national emergency in the Pacific.

Representative M'Clinic declared that the committee could not competently decide what naval defense measures are necessary as long as the navy department refuses to lay its cards on the table.

Secretary Wilbur said Wednesday that Mr. M'Clinic had individually asked for confidential information from the department and had been refused, but that he knew of no request from the naval committee as a whole.

MAY REOPEN AIMEE HEARING THURSDAY

Los Angeles Paper Says Jurors Will Be Asked to Return Joint Indictment

Los Angeles, Calif. — (AP) — The Times says it has learned from an authoritative source that new grand jury investigation of the Aimee Semple McPherson disappearance case will be opened here Thursday morning.

The newspaper declares the Los Angeles grand jury will be asked to return a joint indictment against the Angelus temple evangelist, Kenneth G. Ormiston, her former radio operator, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, her mother, and other codefendants on criminal conspiracy charges. The stip will be taken by the district attorney's office in order that all of the defendants may be tried jointly when their cases are set for trial in superior court.

The new grand jury investigation was ordered following additional disclosures made to the district attorney's office by Miss Loraine Wiseman Sleaf, confessed hoax perpetrator, and one of the evangelist's accusers. Mrs. McPherson probably will be summoned before the inquisitorial body.

TO NAME NEW DRY HEAD FOR BADGER STATE

Says Hurley Must Be Made Part of Wisconsin and Subject to Law

HE MAY OUST OFFICIALS

Governor-elect Is Aroused Over Padlocking of 29 Saloons by U. S.

BULLETIN

Madison — (AP) — A federal grand jury will be called here Jan. 11, 1927, to investigate the cases of 29 Hurley saloons which were padlocked by federal agents this Tuesday. It was learned here Wednesday by United States Marshal James E. Harris.

Madison — (AP) — Governor-elect Fred

Zimmerman announced Wednesday that drastic measures would be taken to make Hurley a part of Wisconsin, and subject to the laws of Wisconsin when he becomes governor on Jan. 3. Mr. Zimmerman's announcement was made after reading newspaper reports of the padlocking of 29 saloons in Hurley.

"When I become governor," he said, "the village of Hurley will become a part of Wisconsin and subject to the laws of Wisconsin just as Kenosha, Milwaukee or any other Wisconsin city is. There will be a new state prohibition commissioner when I become governor."

"It may take a grand jury investigation in Hurley, it may mean that a new district attorney is needed, but the time has come when Hurley will be cleaned up," he said.

The announcement Wednesday was the first intimation that has come from the new Wisconsin governor, concerning appointment of new state officials. The term of the present prohibition commissioner, Louis L. Gunt, expires May 3, 1927, but as the appointment was not confirmed by the senate, Governor-elect Zimmerman will have the power to appoint a new commissioner when he assumes office.

LITTLE UNITED ACTION

Ironwood, Mich. — (AP) — It is doubtful if any concerted action to clean up Hurley will come from within the city itself. Too many persons are vitally and financially interested in the traffic here to brook the displeasure of the saloon element.

The grocer sells groceries to the element and doesn't want to lose the trade. The druggist does a good business with them and wants their business. Thus the vicious cycle throttles the desires of even a small minority.

REPORTERS MAKE PROBE

Milwaukee — (AP) — Two reporters, disguised as lumberjacks on their way back to the woods for another winter, provided the evidence which caused the state government to launch its cleanup of Hurley, a Milwaukee newspaper declared Wednesday.

OFFER $100 REWARD FOR MISSING GIRLS

Elkhorn — (AP) — A reward of $100 for information leading to the whereabouts of Charlotte Ammon, 17, and Cecil Latta, 18, who disappeared Nov. 12 after attending a church bazaar near here was offered Sunday by the families of the missing pair, who have adjoining farms near Elkhorn.

All the want is assurance that they are alive and well, said a Bernard Ammon, the missing girl's brother. "This suspense and worry is killing her mother. If they need help we want to give it to them. We don't want them arrested and we don't want them to come home against their will. But we do want to hear from them."

Charlotte is 5 feet and four inches tall and has brown eyes and bobbed auburn hair. Cecil is 5 feet and 6 inches tall and has light brown hair and brown eyes. It is assumed the young people eloped and have refrained from communicating with their parents because they feared parental opposition due to their youth.

ROTARIANS TELL WHY THEY CAME TO APPLETON TO LIVE

Most of Them Found It an Attractive Place to Make Their Livelihood

Why Rotarians came to Appleton was discussed at the weekly meeting of the Rotary club Tuesday noon at the Hotel Rotary. Five members of the club gave their reasons for locating in the city.

Frank M. Sager of the Sager-Bronson mortuary, heard of Appleton, came to see it, bought a business and then went home to tell his wife they were moving here.

For a number of years, M. T. Ray, who was employed by an auditing company, audited the books of the Thimpany Pulp and Paper Co. The firm then offered him a permanent position, and he accepted the proposition he said.

Nothing would have done little good for Joseph Weber even if he had not wanted to come here, he maintained. When Mr. Weber was a year old his family moved to Appleton and they brought him with them. Later he left town and returned because of an attractive business offer.

After working in many departments of newspapers, H. L. Davis accepted the position of business manager of the Appleton Post-Crescent because it was his ambition to have it. His life in the newspaper business started as a pressman, Mr. Davis said.

E. A. Schnall of the Downer Drug Co. came to Appleton to help put the business on a paying basis. He was employed by a wholesale drug company. When he had been here for two weeks, he was asked to stay permanently, and after the death of Mr. Downer, took over the management of the store.

Rotarians were urged by George Wetzel to attend the joint meeting of luncheon clubs, the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, city officials and interested citizens to consider a proposal of the M. T. Shaw Inc. shoe manufacturers, who are considering locating in Appleton.

A travel agent was presented to E. C. Hilfert in appreciation of his service as official pianist for the club. Joseph Koffend, Jr., president of the organization, made the presentation.

BEG PARDON

The street department does not catch stray dogs throughout the city and police did not receive a $1 commission as was stated in Tuesday's issue of the Post-Crescent.

The $1 commission was paid to an agent who had a contract for the disposal of the dead dogs, police officials explained.

"The only function of the street department," explained Mr. Hackworth, "is to hold the dogs that are to be destroyed at the street department building on S. Walnut-st. Owners of dogs that are to be eliminated must bring the animals to the street department and the dog will be kept there."

"The police then are notified that the dog is to be destroyed and an officer shoots the dog. The street department then takes the dead animal to a special platform at Appleton Junction where the body is picked up by a rendering company. The men employed in this department do not chase stray dogs and capture them," Mr. Hackworth denied.

POLICE NAB MOTORIST DRIVING WRONG WAY

Enforcement of the city ordinance providing for a one-way traffic on certain streets in the city is being made by the police as was indicated Tuesday afternoon. Y., are spending the Christmas holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Nemco-check, 222 W. Washington-st. Mr. Henry will move to Wichita, Tex., after the first of the year.

KIMBERLY MAN HOST ON 90TH BIRTHDAY

John Williams of Kimberly celebrated his ninetyeth birthday anniversary Tuesday evening. A dinner was served at 6 o'clock at his home at which all of his children were guests. In the evening about 15 friends gathered at his home to congratulate him. The evening was spent informally.

Both Mr. Williams and his wife who is 81 years old, are active. Mr. Williams does not wear glasses and he walks about a half mile to church every Sunday.

TREASURER READY TO COLLECT OVER MILLION IN TAXES

Bring Last Year's Receipts When You Go to City Hall, He Warns

Collection of Appleton's tax roll, amounting to $1,215,378, will be started 9 o'clock Thursday morning by Fred E. Bachman, city treasurer, at the city hall. Collecting will continue until Monday, Jan. 31, 1927.

Taxes may be paid during these dates between 9 and 12 o'clock in the morning and 1:15 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon on every day except Saturday and Sunday. On Saturday the office will be open in the morning only. The office will be open between 7 and 8 o'clock every Monday evening in January.

The first day for collection is in December to allow those so desiring an opportunity to pay their taxes in 1926. Many prefer to include tax payments in their books for the coming year in which they are levied; it was pointed out by the treasurer.

BRING 1925 RECEIPT

All taxpayers are to take their 1925 tax receipts with them when they pay their taxes. Much time and inconvenience is saved if everyone complies with this request, according to Mr. Bachman. A description of real estate owned by the taxpayer, including the ward, plat or addition and lot and block in which the property is located, must be had by the city treasurer before the taxes can be paid and the full description is contained in the receipts.

Possession of the receipts also gives the taxpayer the opportunity to make a comparison of his 1925 taxes with those of the preceding year.

All taxes are payable without fees up to and including Jan. 31, 1927, according to Mr. Bachman. After that date a 2 per cent collection fee will be added. All unpaid personal and income taxes on Feb. 1, 1927, will be placed in the hands of the police department for collection.

A record of the amount of personal and income taxes are being sent to all those citizens who do not own real estate.

PERSONS HAVING AN INCOME AND PERSONAL TAX MUST PAY BOTH, CITY TREASURER REMINDS

The personal property tax was repealed in 1925.

COLD WEATHER BRINGS MORE DEMAND FOR HELP

Six or eight families have been added to the city list of dependents during the cold weather of the past ten days, according to E. Schueller, city poor commissioner. Many applications were received in this period but were refused because the commissioner believed the city was not justified in helping these families.

December has been the busiest month this fall and winter, he continued. About 35 or 40 families are receiving help.

NEW SEDAN STOLEN AT STEVENS POINT

A new Chrysler sedan, believed to have been stolen by a hold-up man, disappeared from its parking place on a street in Stevens Point late Monday evening. Appleton police have been informed. The missing machine is finished in blue and is a 1927 model. The motor number is 179538, and the serial number is 413W. It is equipped with a single bumper in front and a double bumper in the rear, and five Fisk balloon tires.

The person believed to have perpetrated the theft is suspected of having committed some burglaries in Stevens Point Monday evening, probably a short time before the car was stolen. The suspect is about 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighs approximately 145 pounds, has dark hair and a dark complexion, and is of slim build. When last seen he wore a corduroy cap and khaki coat.

EXPECT DEFINITE ACTION TONIGHT ON SHOE FACTORY

Mayor Looks for Large Attendance at Meeting With Racine Manufacturers

Much interest is being shown in the joint meeting of the city council, chamber of commerce, luncheon clubs and other interested citizens with the city officials and the officers of the M. T. Shaw, Inc., of Racine, shoe manufacturers, to consider a proposal of the company to move its factory to Appleton. A large number of men are expected to attend this meeting and it is possible that some definite action will be taken, according to Mayor Albert C. Ray. Arrangements for the meeting have been made by the special council industrial committee appointed by Mayor Ray.

This committee investigated 25 or 30 industries which contemplated seeking new quarters or were seeking places to locate and the Shaw company was deserving of the most consideration, according to the mayor. He explained that all the stock in the company is held by four men and no stock can be purchased. The company is asking a building with approximately 14,000 square feet of floor space and the expense of moving from Racine. The company wants to move from Racine because of labor conditions in the southern city.

In return for a building and money to pay for moving, the company agrees to spend not less than $1,000,000 in Appleton during the next seven years. The firm now employs 107 persons, 30 of whom are girls, and its payroll from Jan. 1, 1926 to Nov. 30 was about $107,000. Employees receive from 45 to 50 cents an hour. Approximately 200,000 pairs of shoes were made by the company during the past year and every pair has been sold.

It is understood that several other Wisconsin cities including Ripon, Waupun and Two Rivers are offering inducements to the company. It is more than likely, according to Mayor Ray, that if Appleton does not reach an agreement with the company it will locate in one of these cities.

Appleton has been given preference over the other cities because it is the center of an area of population by approximately 55,000 people, because of the fine transportation and power facilities and because Lawrence college is located here, Mayor Ray said.

LOCAL MAN IS SUED BY SURETY COMPANY

Bonding House Seeks to Recover Sum Paid to Railroad as Indemnity

Suit of the National Surety Co. against Dave L. Jacobson, Appleton, to recover $1,803.57 indemnity paid by the plaintiff to the Chicago and North Western Railway Co. while the defendant was in the employ of the railroad, was started Wednesday morning in the upper branch of municipal court. The surety Co. also is seeking interest on that sum from Dec. 1921, plus the costs of the action.

It is alleged by the plaintiff that this sum of money was stolen from the Appleton station of the railroad on the afternoon of Sept. 21, 1921, and that the theft was made possible because of the carelessness of the defendant and his disregard for rules of his employer.

While acting as ticket agent for the railroad, the surety Co. charges that Jacobson left the station at 12 o'clock noon on the above mentioned date and was absent for about three hours although he was supposed to be on duty at that time.

The allegation that Jacobson made application to the surety company for a bond at the time he applied for the railroad for a position is denied by the defendant, who further alleged that the railroad and the plaintiff entered into an agreement prior to that time providing for indemnity for any losses suffered by the railroad through the acts of any of its employees.

An application for a marriage license has been granted by John E. Hantschel, county clerk, to John Meier, Pulaski, and Rose Sigl, Seymour.

G. W. Emdor of Minneapolis, is visiting his brother, C. H. Emdor, 415 N. Oneida-st.

All Around Wisconsin

Who's giving away $100 bills? Sheriff D. H. Parks of Stevens Point would like to know, for he received a nice, crisp, gold note in that denomination through the mails in a letter signed "A friend of law and order."

The letter said: "Please accept this as a present, toward the cut the county board gave you. You have done your duty and God be with you."

The county board recently cut the bills of the sheriff $1,200 from the amount he asked in his itemized expense statement.

His fighting blood roused by charges made by Gov. Blaine that he neglected his duty through sympathy for the "Klax Klan," Sheriff Frank Baker of Pierce-co Tuesday morning declared he "would carry the matter to the state supreme court." The governor, following an investigation into a Legion-Klan "row" some months ago at Ellsworth, issued a statement that Baker had been guilty of neglect of duty and that he would be removed from office were it not so late that an order for removal could not be acted upon before the expiration of the sheriff's term.

Marquette has developed six cases of small pox at the present time, widely distributed throughout the city. Persons in industrial plants where victims worked, have been vaccinated and the health officer, Dr. S. Gerglund, hopes to confine the limited number of cases.

The statewide celebration of the dedication of Memorial hall, the new dormitory for women at Northland college Ashland, will take place with a chicken supper on the evening of Jan. 14. All the 200 organizations and churches in Wisconsin, and others in Illinois, which have helped build it, will be invited to celebrate in this way. The Wisconsin campaign for funds is under the direction of Mrs. Rosa Edwards, Oshkosh, and the Illinois drive under Mrs. P. L. Evans, La Grange.

An increase of Beloit's taxes for 1926 over those of 1925 has induced a spirit of stringent economy into the city administration and, as a result, the council decided Monday night to cancel the 1927 paving program and extension of the sewer district. Other improvements which may be proposed later probably will meet the same fate, it was indicated.

The Forest-co board recently cut the fee for boarding prisoners at the county jail to 75 cents a day, and now William P. Clawson, sheriff-elect, announces that unless the county board sees fit to reconsider this action, making it "possible for him to operate the sheriff's office efficiently, honestly and at a reasonable profit," he will submit his resignation to the governor on April 15, 1927.

Although the state laws are declared to provide specifically for the case, J. M. Gooding has been forced to bring suit against Fond du Lac for payment for services as municipal judge for 28 days during the illness of Judge H. M. Fellenz. His bill was rejected by the county board on the

FURNACE COMPANY PROPERTY BOUGHT BY NEW CONCERN

Newly Organized Badger Furnace Co. Buys Property Operated by Firm of Same Name

Sale of the Badger Furnace Co. property at N. Morrison and E. At-lantic-st to the newly organized Badger Furnace Co. by Appleton State bank was announced Wednesday. The purchase price was approximately $27,500.

The state bank took over the property of the old Badger Furnace Co., operated for about 32 years by H. J. Schlegel, when the company became involved in financial difficulties. Last August another Badger Furnace Co. was organized by Frank and John Hollenbeck and Norman Lillge which took over the business of the old concern. This new company now has purchased the property which includes two residences and several factory buildings. The company is incorporated for $5,000.

Three of the factory units are occupied by the new company which is Cheeks amounting to approximately $13,000 will be sent to stockholders of the Appleton Building and Loan association within the next week as dividends for the past year, according to George H. ## DIPLOMATIC BREAK WITH MEXICO NOT FAVORABLE TO U. S.

Might Affect $140,000,000
Market for Goods from America

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—What would happen to Mexican-American commerce if the United States severed diplomatic relations with its little dark-complexioned sister?

At the outset, nothing. But there would be three subsequent dangers, any one of which might arise to affect Mexico's position as a market for 14,000,000 of American goods annually, or her export trade to this country of approximately $170,000,000. These are:

1. An internal revolution.
2. A boycott of American goods.
3. American intervention.

These possibilities, of course, depend respectively upon the present strength of the Calles government and malcontent elements in Mexico, the temper of the Mexican people and the lengths to which the United States might be willing to go for the benefit of American oil and mining interests.

President Plutarco Calles is the first Mexican executive actually to be elected and installed peacefully in office without the aid of a revolt. There are numerous leaders in Mexico obviously dissatisfied with such a quiet procedure who would be glad to upset the present government.

If President Coolidge were to sever relations with the Calles government, these fellows would feel they were being told to "go to it" and that they would virtually have this country's official support.

A real revolution probably would disrupt Mexico's foreign trade and certainly would engender bitterness among many Mexicans against the United States, but if it were successful the State Department and this country's big interests in Mexico would unquestionably obtain more satisfaction from the ensuing government in regard to the petroleum laws and other questions now at issue.

Anti-American feeling surely would be fanned to blazing hatred in case of intervention, and it might take years to repair the collapse of trade between the two countries which would follow.

If there were no pressure of arms, external or internal, the future in case of disrupted relations would be problematical. It is difficult to forecast whether the attitude of the Mexicans could create a boycott of serious proportions; attending factors might arouse the people sufficiently to create such a movement.

Officially, trade between the two countries would continue as before. Mexican customs regulations include a clause providing for maintenance of shipments to and from nations considered as friendly whether or not formal diplomatic relations exist. Thus, when Great Britain severed relations with Mexico two or three years ago, there was no interference with Anglo-Mexican commerce. The incident was regarded as one of diplomatic blundering and relations soon resumed, without any boycott or other demonstrations of extreme bitterness.

American property in Mexico is valued at about $1,500,000,000. In October, last month for which figures are available, our exports to Mexico were $10,000,749, compared with $11,534,070 in October, 1925. Imports from Mexico were $12,812,616 and $13,049,555. For the 10 months ended Nov. 1, 1926, exports were $114,552,660 and imports $142,764,112. For the same period last year exports were $120,922,650 and imports $181,964,558.

MEASLES CASES ARE PRACTICALLY GONE

Measles signs will be practically gone before school opens, according to Dr. William C. Felton, city physician. Only five houses were placarded from Dec. 23 to 27, or about one case a day. A few weeks ago from ten to 12 signs were distributed each day.

Vacations are health benefits, the doctor continued, for when children are out of school there is less chance for spreading germs of contagious diseases. There are now only about 6 measles signs in the city. The one placed for scarlet fever was to be removed Tuesday. Whooping cough claims about 15 or 20 houses, and chicken pox about six. No other infections or contagious diseases are found here at present, the physician said.

Now They'll Make Cotton Into Casings For Sausage

BY ISRAEL KLEIN
The south will find a new and growing market for its over abundant cotton crop in the prosaic but popular manufacture of sausage casings. Sausage casings out of cotton, more sanitary, much more edible more uniform, cheaper and better than the casings now in use, are promised this delicatessen age through researches just completed by scientists of the Mellon Institute for Industrial Research, at Pittsburgh, Pa.

After ten years of investigation and chemical experimenting a method has been devised for making the casings needed for the millions of winners and other sausages consumed in this country. For its manufacture the chemists have gone so far from their own line of endeavor as to invent a machine.

Traveling Man Compliments
City on Excellent Condition of Thoroughfares

The fine condition of Appleton's streets and the prompt removal of snow in the outlying districts as well as downtown are praised in a letter received by R. P. Hackworthy, street commissioner, from K. M. Haugen, representative of a battery company, who travels through Michigan and Wisconsin.

The letter follows: "You may be interested to know that in the last two or three weeks I have been in many of the larger cities in Wisconsin and Michigan and none of them had their streets in as fine a condition as those of Appleton. You are certainly to be complimented for the mighty fine work you have been doing in keeping not only the downtown streets free of snow but those in the outlying districts as well."

Karl M. Haugen, "At the present time difficulty is being experienced by the department, according to Mr. Hackworthy in finding some means or removing the hard crust of ice which has been formed on all streets and which has been worn into deep ruts. These ruts are the cause of much trouble to motorists. It is possible to remove the ice by having men with picks clear it away, but this method is very slow and expensive. The city graders are too light to tear away the ice properly, although they have been tried out. Until some method of removing the ice has been found, all the available men are being used to clear away the ice on the streets which have the most traffic and on those streets where the car line is situated."

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE
To the home of PROF and MOLIE ELWELL in Camdenville, Ind., one night in October of 1898 comes MARTHA DALTON, a nurse, bearing with her a woman who had fainted on the Chicago-Indianapolis train, on which Martha had been traveling.

Prof Elwell is an artist. He has a five-year-old son, JIM. Prof and Mollie take the stranger in and, late that night, twin girls are born to the woman, who dies a few hours later without leaving a trace of her identity. She had mentioned the name JACK and babbling of leaving a husband who was untrue. Her attitude had indicated her to be a person of wealth and culture.

The story then moves forward to June of 1916. The allies are demanding that the United States join hands with them in the war, and in Prof Elwell's workshop, where he paints sideboards and theater curtains, the reader is introduced to Jim Elwell, now 22, and his father's partner, and to the twin girls, who have grown up in the family and are now 17.

CHAPTER II
"You're just in time, my dears," was Prof Elwell's greeting to the twins on this day in June when he had quenched his thirst and wiped off his lips. "You must have had a hunch. Here, Rusty, you're first by reason of being fifteen minutes older than Betty. Wet your whistle but be very careful. The can only holds a quart, you know."

Rusty, more formally known as Margaret, accepted the proffered "can" and clamped her lips over its rim. Her gravity made it all the more ludicrous. She made funny noises in her throat for some ten seconds and then passed the pail to Betty, who just as gravely went through the same motions. Jim looked on and waited.

"Great Snakes!" he burst out suddenly. "Don't you ever come up for a little air? Where'd you think you are—in a brewery? And he reached for the pail, a fierce scowl accompanying the movement. He knew that both detested the taste of beer and on he made a pretense of drinking because they thought they were fooling him. And of course he must let his pals "do their stuff." It would be unportsmanlike to call their bluffs. "Goodness sakes!" exclaimed Betty, and she looked much aggrieved. "My but you're stinky with your old can. Ask a lady in to have a drink and then jerk it out of her hand! Haven't you any manners?"

The answer came from Jim in gurgles. And there was "no bluff about that," "funny noise." The suds were soaping down the tide was falling fast. "Got plenty of manners," gasped Jim finally when he had pulled his nose out of the pail. "Just didn't want yuh to get tight, that's all." He winked at his father and set the empty can down on a nearby table.

"What do you think of the curtain?" he asked the twin, waving a hand toward the big canvas. "Know what it signifies? Well, it's the dusky bird in red lights knocking to the old seer with the whiskers? You tell us, Betty; you know your Shakespeare."

Betty studied the picture with a great pretense of puzzled awe, pursing her pretty lips and signifying by elaborate grimaces that she was concentrating very deeply.

"I never could guess, Jim," she made answer finally with an untruffled sweetness—she who had read the story of Desdemona many times and who knew perfectly well what the picture represented.

Jim eyed her with keen approval. "You're gettin' on great," he stated with comradely familiarity. "As a classy little liar I've got to hand it to you. You're learning fast. By the time you're twenty you'll be well fitted to realize your life's ambition to be a vampire queen of the movies. You're pretty near able to pass muster right now."

Betty bowed. Jim told her there was someone present on whom she might practice her wiles. "Go vamp Prof into finishing the border on that curtain and I'll doll up and take yez over to the Palace for dinner." He inquired of Rusty whether his brogue was passable and then went on to explain that he had heard the Palace had a new string orchestra. "How does that suit you kids?"

"Kids!" The twins snorted in unison, Margaret adding, "Where do you get that kid stuff, Jim? We're nearly eighteen."

Jim grinned tolerantly and admitted that he expected they'd grow up some day, and turned toward the basement to change his clothes.

Betty started in at once on her assignment of vamping Prof into doing Jim's work. Her efforts seemed to have an immediate effect. A little rumpling of his iron-gray hair and a little kiss on the corner of his lip and the Vamp had her subject purring and grinning like the famous Chesapeake cat.

But the treatment appeared to have a narcotic effect on Prof for he remained seated after the trio had gone, a fond, retrospective light in his eyes. The painting he ignored.

"Gad, what girls!" he soliloquized softly, his mental gaze turning back down the years. "Both of 'em. Just like Mollie was at their age."

He stared reflectively at the canvass and Jim's unfinished work. He asked himself, "What about Jim? Where does he get off at? He seems to consider them kids yet! Just about the same as he did five years ago. Kids nothing!"

He told himself that seventeen and past was older by some three months than Mollie had been when she married him. And both of them were eternally petting and kissing Jim. "Just like Betty was vamping me as she calls it."

They were like a brace of "darn kittens" with just about as much of an idea of the danger concealed in their soft little paws as kittens seemed to have. How did Jim really stand and where? Did he really like them both just the same, just as they would if they had been, in fact, his sisters?

"No use to ask him; they're still his kid pals. How can a boy of twenty-two be that way with two such scurvy girls? I'll have to talk with Mollie on this."

But still he remained seated, lost in the hazy mists of the summer noon. He was dreaming a summer noon dream, living again through the days that had passed. On the lens of his mind he saw the years pile up one by one and the gradual change take place in the growth of the twins. Across that lens flitted pictures of the two as they looked at different periods in the seventeen years since that night in October when they had come into the world.

They were children playing with Jim about the house and yard. Then came their school days and Jim's graduation six years before. Then the twins' own graduation in the previous June. Then came the visualization of the girls at the age of seventeen, their birthday celebrated by a visit of the little family of five to Chicago, where they had gone to the opera and seen Mary Garden and heard her sing. From that time on, he recalled, these two girls brought so much and so strangely into the lives of Mollie, Jim and himself, had been dreaming their dreams and talking the day when they, too, might see their names flaming in the white lights of fame.

Rusty—Margaret—who saw herself as a dancer of classical parts, a delineator of legends. Betty—Elizabeth—who dreamed of singing before the crowned heads of Europe—when the war was over, of course. And who would consent to being a movie queen.

And so it was that Prof. Elwell, himself a dreamer of artistic dreams, missed his dinner on that day in June of the year 1916.

Life is a parade of years and a succession of incidents. And little happenings age us just as much as time does. It was that way with the twins and Jim Elwell.

Betty Elwell jerked open the screen door opening on the porch of the little Camdenville cottage one Saturday afternoon and came rushing into the sitting room where Prof. and Mollie were talking. Her hair was flying in a glittering spread of coppery floss. Her cheeks were flaming and her eyes glowed.

The door banged behind her and she drew up in front of Prof and Mollie panting and greatly excited. "Where's Jim? I've got something to tell him—quick!"

"Quick!" repeated this flame of frenzied excitement. "I've got something to tell him that won't wait!"

Jim, his mother managed to gasp, was out in the woodshed. She believed he was shining his shoes. "But what in heaven's name is the matter? What's happened to him?"

But the flame was blazing its way through dining room and kitchen, the sheen of coppery hair trailing out in its wake like the spark-blown tail of a fiery comet. Mollie turned to Prof, an inquiring look in her eyes, but his smile reassured her and she remained in her chair.

Jim Elwell, all fixed up in his Palm Beach pants, his nine-dollar shirt, soft collar and fancy necktie, with one tan shoe only half polished, was struck breast-on by the onrushing comet and knocked halfway across the woodshed.

He protested that he was not in the mood for playing new and strange games. There was a time for all things and—

But the comet went with him, holding him in its burning clutch. It was saying things with a tongue that he worked like forked lightning. She might calm herself, Jim advised, trying to keep his feet, and finally the tumbling words began to drop into a formation that carried a vague hint of what it was all about.

"Quick Jim—c'mon! C'mout'n punch his nose for us! He got fresh with Betty an' me! We were out in the back yard under the trees dryin' our hair. He came along by the alley fence. He's bigger'n you are!" that made no difference to Jim he told her, beginning to roll up his sleeve—"an' he started makin' smart cracks at us Betty told him to go on about his own business or he'd get thrashed. He said our whole family an' all our friends couldn't lick him an' he'd go on when he got good an' ready! Betty is tryin' to keep him busy till I get you!"

Jim needed no further enlightenment. Some bum had got smart with his kid pals. That was enough. "Lead me to 'im."

In the back yard, with a space divided off for croquet grounds, was a clump of apple trees. Under one of these trees farthest away from the alley stood Betty quivering with indignation. Her wealth of hair, like Rusty's

CHICAGO WILL GET ALL LAKE WATER IN ABOUT 3,200 YEARS

Lakes Gradually Tilting to Discharge into Mississippi, Geologist Says

Madison — (AP) — Father Time and Mother Nature eventually will settle the lake diversion controversy and with no regard to the arguments of either side, Frank B. Taylor, Pl. Wayne, Ind., geologist declared today at the annual meeting of the Geological Society of America at Madison Wis.

If the present land-tilting in the Great Lakes basin continues, they will step into the picture about the year 5100 A. D., said Mr. Taylor, and decide in favor of Chicago, causing the four upper lakes to discharge at Chicago and Niagara Falls to go dry as the result of uplifting of the land at according to Mr. Taylor.

Mr. Taylor bases his conjecture upon Dr. C. K. Gilbert and Mr. Sherman Moore, Michigan geologists whose studies show that in the Lake Huron region land has been rising during the past 2,700 or 3,000 years, including a period of gauge readings during the past 50 years, has been approximately 1.48 feet per century.

"Producing the hinge line from Lake Huron to Lake Erie," Mr. Taylor explained, "shows that in the same period Buffalo has been uplifted 3 of a foot per century. The hinge line passes about 4 miles north of Dunkirk, N. Y., and 32 miles south of Buffalo, being at the northeast end of the lake, every inch of uplift at Buffalo raises the water level of the whole lake. "South of the hinge line the rise of the water level is the same as the rise of land at Buffalo.

"Barring human interference, and supposing the rock sill at Buffalo to hold firm, Lake Erie would be raised to the level of Lake Huron (as it was before the present extreme low stage) in about 1,600 years; and in about 1,600 more the upper four lakes would discharge at Chicago and Niagara Falls would go dry.

"At the rate started, the amount of drowning in Lake Erie south of the hinge line would be 13.5 to 15 feet in the last 2,700 to 3,000 years. Mosley's drowned creek beds on the floor of Sandusky Bay, with other drowned tributaries to Lake Erie and the Detroit river, indicate a drowning of 12 to 15 feet.

"These facts strongly support the idea of recent and present tilting of the land at Buffalo at the same rate as that which has affected Lake Huron in the same period.

"Engineers can hardly afford to overlook these natural changes in planning future works on the shores of these waters."

PROSPERITY FOR RAILROADS

The railroads of the United States have had the best year since they were returned to private operation in 1920. They show a net operating income for 1926 of approximately 5.21%. This is substantially above the five-year average of 4.52%. As satisfactory as the return is, there is one phase of the year's record quite as significant and perhaps even more important. The railroads in 1926 carried the largest volume of freight traffic in their history, smoothly and without congestion. Since there is a direct relationship between volume and earnings, this will account in a measure for the increased net return. Greater efficiency and some economies have helped to bring about this gratifying result. In addition to this, the railroads have been engaged in the last few years in heavy capital outlays. Since 1920 capital expenditures have amounted to nearly $5,200,000,000. For the year 1926 improvements authorized amounted to $1,325,000,000, with the sum of $875,000,000 actually spent, leaving $450,000,000 to be carried over to 1927 for completion.

It is a remarkable fact that notwithstanding the railroads having established a record in volume of traffic this year, it was handled with greater facility and dispatch than ever before. The value of this to our transportation economy cannot be overemphasized. Prompt shipments and deliveries are everything to the life of trade. They increase volume of sales and turnover, together with profits. They are of vital importance in the marketing of farm products and of any commodity the price of which fluctuates. We have had enough experience in this country with depleted railway plants and equipment, attendant delays, uncertain deliveries and even loss of shipments, to properly evaluate high grade and dependable railroad service.

The railroads have prospered because of general commercial and industrial activity, and conversely business has prospered by reason of profitable railway operation. Two of the elements that enter into successful business and a balanced cost of living are production and distribution. Efficient railway transportation is indispensable to the proper functioning of distribution. It should be a matter of national satisfaction and pride that the railroads have been restored, or rather have restored themselves, to a higher state of efficiency. It has been only a few years since the reverse was true, and the country was subjected to serious handicaps. Receiverships were all too common, and no money was available for betterments. These conditions appear to have been remedied through a wise and constructive governmental railroad policy. High wages are paid and employment is regular. We ought not to quibble about how much money the railroads are making, for none of them is making, or is permitted to make, more than a reasonable and just return on the investment, and certainly an average of 5.21% is not high. What we ought to be concerned about is service and railway systems that function 100%. Every town, community and city, and the country at large, is vitally affected in its prosperity and progress by reliable and adequate transportation service. Rates should and must be whatever are required to maintain an efficient railway plant and this kind of service.

We have just gone through a period of repressive railroad policy. It can be justified as a corrective measure to terminate certain evils and bring about certain reforms. It ended in putting the railroads almost out of business. There is no occasion for it any longer. We need today a continuation of the policy which has been helpful in bringing railroads up to the present high standing. There is still room for improvement, and we should strive to bring it about. Furthermore, it is the only road that leads to lower freight rates. Modernization of the railway plant and volume, along with some consolidations, will alone yield lower rates, which can never be secured by depleting earnings and reserves, crippling facilities and harassing the railroads with restrictive legislation.

SEND THEM BACK

A new form of selling merchandise is flooding the country with neckties. It is the method adopted by "Paunce Bill, the blind tie man" and he sends forth floods of neckties, three in an envelope, with a piteous appeal to send him a dollar for them or return the ties. A surprisingly large number of people are touched by the appeal and particularly at this time of the year and send the dollar for merchandise said to be worth about thirty cents. Little realizing that the money is received by a person who is in quite comfortable circumstances, and that the appeal is another canard by means of which the kindly emotions of others are coaxed into dollars.

The Milwaukee Association of Commerce has advised the public of its legal rights, that is that the recipient of one of the envelopes of ties is under no obligation to return them or to pay for them, which is true; but the further advice of the Association of Commerce, "After that lose them if you wish or give them away," is hardly the kind of advice that should be given.

However undeserving Paunce Bill may in fact be it is hardly an act of honesty to lose or give away his property without compensation. It is a simple thing to return the ties in the stamped envelope which Paunce Bill furnishes and that is a much better thing than to convert them to one's own use without paying for them. Paunce Bill's method of merchandising has been taken up by others, as all similar schemes are imitated, and now handkerchiefs, pencils, billfolds, raincoats, underwear and other garments are being sent out in much the same manner. Reports are that most of the merchandise is billed at prices way beyond its value and this wholesale fraud upon the public has brought forth in congress the introduction of a bill aimed to stop the practice. Until the bill becomes a law, however, it were better to merely return the articles.

THE MARCH OF PROSPERITY

Despite all the croakings of pessimists and the sincere warnings of optimists, the march of the era of prosperity in which we find ourselves goes on, undiminished in volume or extent. Industrial activity continued in a really large volume in October and figures for November tentatively show that there has been no slackening of the pace. Also, notwithstanding the seasonal increase in borrowing for commercial purposes, the volume of bank credit outstanding declined in recent weeks, reflecting the continued liquidation of loans on securities.

Production in basic industries is unchanged, although steel production in November declined slightly, as did the volume of building activity. Freight car loadings have been very large, much larger, in fact, than is usual at this time of the year. The liquidation of long term credits is a gratifying sign that there is a movement on foot within the ranks of debtors to avoid stagnation and depression by applying conservative methods to their credit business at the present time.

WIVES AND OTHER WEIGHTY MATTERS

It seems clear enough why most old maids are skinny or scrawny, or rather vice versa, but what puzzles me is how come one meets now and then a nice fat girl that seems to be quite unmarried. Seriously, are not most fat women validly and irreparably married? Substantially so, and a fellow who is called upon to support 20 or 30 per cent more wife than he contracted for may as well make light of the burden. There are extenuating circumstances, to wit:
When he picked her as his ideal, out of a large assortment, she required 7,665 meals a year to maintain her as a peerless 138 pounder. Now after fifteen years, precisely 7,665 meals a year will maintain her at a breathless 155 pounds. In other words it apparently requires no better provider to maintain one wife than it does to maintain one and a fourth. How come? Well the explanation is simple enough. A wife is in a sense a machine. Not a sewing machine, nor a washing machine, not any more, but an internal combustion engine. She takes, say, 2,500 calories of fuel in the form of food each day. In the first year or two of service she burns most of this fuel, converting it into regular energy, which is applied to work or play. Then very gradually, almost imperceptibly, she adopts one after another of the modern expedients whereby woman avoids work from sun to sun and her husband's business rate diminishes, but through custom and habit she still takes her regular allowance of fuel, and so she comes into her own as a dapper dignitary. The superfluous fuel she no longer burns she stores. It is just like the camel's hump, only less utilitarian. Then, too, there's the ubiquity of quick, comfortable conveyance of one kind and another these days, which conspire to rob us all of the benefits of walking.
Golf is for most women of weight only a mockery. A round of golf would do very well as a substitute for a three mile walk if the woman could have it regularly every day. Few women or men either can play around of golf every day, even in the open season.
Any woman who imagines one wife can hold a man better than one and a quarter can, may keep encouraging obesity in check by the simple practice of daily walking. How much walking may be necessary to keep something like the lines of youth is an individual question depending on the special circumstances in each case, but generally from three to six miles a day will keep a housekeeper or a business woman in fair-trim, and the woman who gets this best of all exercise every day need not worry much about the calories in her rations. She burns 'em all right, even the candy, ice cream and sundae calories.

There is seldom a day when a woman may not take her due stipend of oxygen on the beat of village or city. There may be days when it is not feasible, in the country. On such days some other form of active exercise should be substituted—or if that is out of the question, then one meal should be skipped. Far better for even a fat woman's good health, good looks and good nature, to skip meals in any circumstances, but rather to exercise some way to get the needed oxygen into the system, even though it be restricted to skipping the rope in the basement, an exercise, by the way, particularly good for stout folk who puff too much.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A Pathy
Some time ago I asked whether you approved or disapproved of naturopathy and you said if I would state the principles of naturopathy you would say whether they are true or false. Here they are:

1. During a fever not a morsel of food should pass the lips.
  2. An absolute fast should be undergone in all cases where inflammation of the stomach or intestines is involved.
  3. No drug stimulants should be given a patient.
- Answer—If these are the principles of "naturopathy" the fast is more absurd than I thought. I consider all three "principles" false and dangerous. Such "principles" indicate plainly that "naturopathy" is a half baked attempt to appeal to the half informed or misinformed. But then, it is not to be expected that any little narrow "paths" should assay more than a minute trace of uncommon sense. In typical fever there comes a time when victory demands that the patient shall have good solid food, in tuberculosis only a crazy fool would say "not a morsel of food should pass the lips." "Naturopathy" like every other cult, fad or pathy of healing shows an analysis about the following composition:

Truth..... One grain
Common sense..... One grain
Tolerating..... Nine grains
(Translating "in formula" Q. S. stands for sufficient quantity—sufficient to appeal to the prospect with a little knowledge.)
Where to Hang the Thermometer
In reference to maintaining a constant temperature of 65 degrees in living rooms, at what height should thermometers hang? Mine is 4 1/2 feet from the floor and 55 seems rather too warm for me. (T. M. T.)
Answer—Four and one-half feet is about right. Possibly your thermometer is not accurate. Most house thermometers are far from accurate. However, if 65 feels too warm, by all means adopt a lower standard, 60 to 62. I mean that 65 is the average temperature, for health and comfort. It should never rise above 68, but it may be allowed to go as low as comfort dictates.

Brinkle, Brinkle, Little Faece
Would certain foods have a beneficial effect on chronic cold as the enclosed circular claims? (C. M.)
Answer—A few years ago a Washington mail order taker who drummed up a brisk business with the ubiquitous sucker was excluded from the use of the mails, being a fraud. He is your "school of eating."

THERE'S MANY A SLIP—

LIBRARY ADVENTURES

By Arnold Mulder

A STRAIN ON CREDULITY

Many great novelists have found it necessary from time to time to use incidents in their stories which, if told baldly, in conversation or in a news-story, would never have been believed. There are examples in fiction of incidents that we can almost demonstrate to have been impossible and yet we have been induced to accept them in the novel or short story or drama in which they occurred.
In other words, a novelist confronted with a situation that is needed in his plot but that in itself is incredible does the same thing that an oyster does when it finds a grain of sand within its shell. The oyster secretes its juices and surrounds the grain of sand with them, patiently enveloping it. The secretions harden, making the intruding body harmless, and long afterwards the lucky oyster-man finds a pearl.
The novelist, finds in the scheme of his plot an incredible incident and since it is the first business of the novelist to create a perfect illusion, such an incident is an impurity, a grain of sand in an oyster. If he is just an ordinary novelist he fits the incident in his plot but that in itself is like going at that. The result is a poor novel, like a mirror with a flaw in it. If he is a great novelist he will consciously or unconsciously surround that incredible incident with the secretions of his art. He will sweat and tell to make the incredible appear credible. He will surround it with atmosphere, he will throw high lights or low lights upon it as needed to heighten a tint here and subdue one there. He will expend all his art on the setting of the incident because it is only in this way, he knows, that a grain of sand can be converted into a pearl.
An example of exactly the reverse is shown in a recent novel, "The Kays," by Margaret Deland. In this book a high grade woman is the wife of a man with a past. She takes into her home a mysterious woman who is insane and cares for her 21 years in an upstairs room, and no one in the household knows of her. Even her husband does not know. After 21 years the insane woman dies and it is revealed that she was the woman the husband had betrayed and that the wife had taken her in to expiate her husband's sin.
No one can make me believe in the first place that any highgrade woman would take into her home, out of a sense of duty, an insane prostitute who had been betrayed by her husband. But swallowing that incident, it is ten times more impossible to believe that any man above the grade of an imbecile could live for 21 years in the same house with his former mistress without discovering her identity. It is so much of a whopper that it makes the reader snicker and alienates all sympathy from the story.
A really first-class novelist would hesitate a long time before deciding to use such an incident because he would know that it would mean sweating should he make such an incredible incident seem credible. But suppose he should finally decide to use it, then it would be his main business, almost his sole business to make the reader believe that it was possible. How this could be done I don't know. It would take a very great novelist to do it and a great novelist has his own ways of doing things.
The only thing that is certain is that Margaret Deland has not come within a thousand miles of doing it. The publishers call the book "the crowning point of her career" but if it is, it is a very poor crowning point indeed.
In the case of the oyster, if the intruding grain of sand is not surrounded with the oyster secretions and converted into a pearl, it destroys the life of the oyster and the oyster fisherman only finds a shell with a putrefied mass in it. In the case of the novel, when the incredible is not made credible, it results in vitiating the whole story. Not only is the unsimulated incident a flaw in itself but it poisons the rest of the story.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

Its Name Gives an Idea of Beauty
BY ARTHUR N. PACK
President, American Nature Ass'n.
Even if one had never seen a Lombardy poplar, the name could not help but give some idea of its beauty. For is there anything lovelier and more inviting than a lane of these tall, graceful trees, leading to a house half hidden in shrubbery?
Of all the large family of poplars, the Lombardy is the only member eligible for street planting west of the midline of the United States; there planted along a narrow street, though they produce little shade, they lend a surprising air of dignity. Yet they do not crowd the street itself, they are not a spreading tree, a sense of duty, an insane prostitute who had been betrayed by her husband. But swallowing that incident, it is ten times more impossible to believe that any man above the grade of an imbecile could live for 21 years in the same house with his former mistress without discovering her identity. It is so much of a whopper that it makes the reader snicker and alienates all sympathy from the story.
A really first-class novelist would hesitate a long time before deciding to use such an incident because he would know that it would mean sweating should he make such an incredible incident seem credible. But suppose he should finally decide to use it, then it would be his main business, almost his sole business to make the reader believe that it was possible. How this could be done I don't know. It would take a very great novelist to do it and a great novelist has his own ways of doing things.
The only thing that is certain is that Margaret Deland has not come within a thousand miles of doing it. The publishers call the book "the crowning point of her career" but if it is, it is a very poor crowning point indeed.
In the case of the oyster, if the intruding grain of sand is not surrounded with the oyster secretions and converted into a pearl, it destroys the life of the oyster and the oyster fisherman only finds a shell with a putrefied mass in it. In the case of the novel, when the incredible is not made credible, it results in vitiating the whole story. Not only is the unsimulated incident a flaw in itself but it poisons the rest of the story.

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York — The white blanket of silence once more smothers "the voice of the city."
It is this first snowfall alone that can save the city's mouth.
Suddenly the whole great city seems to pass on padded feet. There comes a sudden relaxation of all the nerve centers; lines of tenseness pass for a moment from faces; the quiet of a peaceful countryside replaces the usual din.
It is as though a dirty giant had come upon some miraculous spring that cleansed him and turned his flesh to a glowing silver-white. All about for a few hours the great city glows in its scrupulous robes.
The skyscrapers rise like snow-tipped foothills. Edges of feathers whirl about their peaks and dance about their corners. They seem to mock the impotent solidity of the steel and stone. They, at least, are free to dance for an hour in the sun. The steel and stone is doomed to stand in hypnotic rigidity until again or changing times shall remove them.
It is the unusual quiet that all New York notices. The rumbling wheels of traffic sink silently into the soft unresisting blanket. The streets become narrow, rutted thoroughfares hemmed in by ragged banks. The endless rows of dwelling places seem suddenly to shut themselves in, like remote farm houses.
At night all the colors of the rainbow are caught and crawl snake-like through the shadows cast by the buildings or the elevators.
Broadway indeed becomes a "great white way"—and it, I feel, the only time it seems to me to be truly "white."
The millions of lights find a perfect reflector and seem to echo themselves in the dazzling white mirror.
But this illusion does not last long. A few hours at most!
Then out comes the army of cleaners—$500 to 10,000 men for a light snowfall and many times more for a blizzard.
These are bonanza days for the jobless. The city throws its shovels to almost any able-bodied man who comes along.
Slowly they remove the muffler and bit by bit, the giant's voice begins to rise again—now in one part of the city; now in another. The wheels churn again on the resisting pavement. Nerves, rested for a moment, grow tense again.
The giant begins to bellow his raucous song.
But if you would catch New York in an almost pastoral mood, come day just after a light snow has fallen.
hardened stomach of gallinaceous birds. A crow, strictly speaking, does not have a gizzard, as this bird does not eat such hard food as gallinaceous birds.
Q. Are avocation and vocation the same? C. H. C.
A. The definition of avocation is a minor or irregular occupation, side interest, diversion. The word has been confused with vocation, but does not have the sanction of good writers as a synonym for vocation.
Q. In what countries do people reach the greatest age? J. P.
A. The Bulgarians and the Russians have the records of the greatest longevity among white peoples. Bulgaria has 3500 in a population of a little over 4,000,000, compared to 164 in France and 84 in Great Britain.
Q. How many acres of asparagus does California grow? C. E.
A. In 1925 California had 8900 acres in asparagus for fresh consumption and 25,400 acres in asparagus for canning.
Q. What does it mean in money when stocks, etc., drop or gain a point? A. C.
A. The term "point" or "points" in stocks usually means 1/100 share advance or decline in value. In cotton, coffee, and sterling exchange, etc.
Q. What is the fraternal order of Glodons? H. D. W.
A. The organization known as the Sons of Glodons was organized July 1, 1920. Its declared purpose was "to band together the Christmas travelers of America and through them to win to commercial travelers of America for the glory of God; to supply every hotel in America with a Bible for each guest room and to prepare the hearts of travelers for salvation."

PROPOSED SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLAN TO COST $1,500,000

Estimate Is Made by Committee of Engineers of Cities Concerned

The proposed plan to build a large sewage disposal plant on the Fox river just north of Kaukauna with feed line extending from Neenah to Kaukauna along the course of the river will cost approximately $1,500,000, according to an estimate made by the committee of engineers of the cities interested. R. M. Connelly, Appleton city engineer, is chairman of the committee and A. E. Mahon, engineer for Neenah-Menasha, Kimberly and Combined Locks and F. M. Charlesworth, Jr., Kaukauna city engineer, are the other members of the committee.

The committee of engineers was appointed by Mayor Albert E. Pate, chairman, and the city engineer of each of the municipalities interested in the project. The committee is to make a preliminary survey to determine the feasibility of the plan and will make a report at a joint meeting of the city councils of all the cities which will be called by Mayor Pate sometime early next year.

At a recent meeting of the committee a discussion was held as to what steps should be taken. Mr. McMahon told the committee he was working on a map which would give a fair idea as to the extent of the project and it was decided to postpone further action until the map was completed and each of the three engineers had taken time to make an exhaustive study of the map.

Mr. Connelly, local engineer, received his copy of the map last week, and will send it next month making an intensive study of the territory outlined. The map shows the Fox river from Neenah to Kaukauna, with a diagram recording the present population of the communities interested and the growth of these communities within the next 50 years, based on figures for the past 50 years. The present population of the territory within Neenah and Menasha is about 17,000 and will grow to about 35,000 within the next half century, it is estimated. The population of Appleton and the territory interested in the project here is about 23,000 and will grow to 45,000, the map shows. The territory covered by Kaukauna, Little Chute, Kimberly and Combined Locks is at present inhabited by 10,000 people. This number will increase to 20,000 within the next five decades.

The territory covered in the map is all that within the watershed of the Fox river. One of the biggest problems confronting the committee, according to Mr. Connelly, is that of devising a plan whereby all the people within the territory will pay their fair share of the estimated cost. There are many ways to figure means of paying for the proposed joint sewage disposal plant. One would be to charge each of the cities according to their estimated population at the present time or of the estimated population 50 years from now. Another would be for each territory and a proportionate share of the sewage disposal plant. A third plan would be for each city to pay according to the amount of sewage which is disposed. No doubt many other plans for financing the project would be devised.

The present estimated cost of $1,500,000 is based on figures roughly taken from the present sketch of the territory to be covered. The sewage line would be approximately more than 14 miles in length. The pipes would have to be of such size as to be able to carry off sewage from a population of 100,000, which is the estimated population of all the territory, 50 years hence. This line, for pipes and construction, would cost approximately $1,000,000. It was estimated by Mr. McMahon of Menasha. A disposal plant for a population of 100,000 would cost in the neighborhood of $500,000, records from other cities show.

The line which would start at Neenah would take advantage of a drop of more than 140 feet in course of the river between Neenah and the proposed site at Kaukauna.

HOTEL BUSINESS GOOD OVER CHRISTMAS WEEK

Hotel business was unusually good during the Christmas season this year, it is reported at most Appleton hostilities. There were 60 per cent more people in one hotel during the week preceding Christmas than last year. The line which would start at Neenah would take advantage of a drop of more than 140 feet in course of the river between Neenah and the proposed site at Kaukauna.

The committee will have another meeting late in January.

Prohibition At Its Worst

A Book Review

By H. E. P.

This is the title of a book just placed on our Public Library shelves. It is the most talked about, most denounced, most praised book on Prohibition, published in 1926. The author is Irving Fisher, Professor of Economics in Yale university. His method and spirit are more those of a man of science than of a propagandist for any position. This makes the book most welcome because most of what is published on this subject is propagandist first and scientific second, if at all.

Prof. Fisher was reluctantly converted to Prohibition after years of study of the facts of alcoholism. In war time he was on the national council of Defense and assigned to a committee to conduct a conference on alcohol and the welfare of soldiers. He believed that a trial period of prohibition as a war measure should precede constitutional prohibition and still thinks that the passage of the amendment was premature. It should have been preceded by a long period of education.

But now that it is here, he undertakes to face the facts. This he does in successive chapters of the book which begins by showing that the present situation of imperfect enforcement is intolerable. Conditions have frequently failed to be enforced as commonly represented. He then presents facts showing that prohibition has done much good hygienically, economically, and socially. Then he outlines why we cannot accomplish what the "wet" really want by having a "coldest act" without thereby violating the Eighteenth Amendment. To repeal an Amendment is out of the question and to nullify it would mean disrespect for law of the most demoralizing kind. Therefore the only practicable solution is to enforce the law and enforcement is a practicable possibility, if reinforced at once by a renewed nation-wide movement of education.

The author is expert in analyzing for us the evidence presented before the U. S. Senate sub-committee on Judiciary in Washington last July. He frequently said that "without will be like statistics." Prof. Fisher is a trained and scientific statistician. He knows how to make figures tell.

APPLETON MAILED 2 DAYS EARLIER IN '26

Appleton actually mailed two days earlier during the Christmas season this year than last, according to postal receipts as announced by H. J. Frank assistant postmaster. In 1925 the heavier mailing started Dec. 12, and in 1926 on Dec. 10.

Postal receipts amounted to $12,650 during the period from Dec. 10 to 24, 1926, an increase of about $600 over the same period last year. However, probably a greater Christmas business was done than is represented by this figure, it was said, because of several contributing factors. In December, 1925, about $2,000 worth of so-called "special request" envelopes were ordered by business firms in Appleton. These are the government stamped envelopes with the firm name printed in the corner. The orders have not been received for the December receipts of this year. Two of the principal postal substations which operated last year at Voigt's drug store and Downer's west end drug store, have been discontinued. Both of these had a large business in 1925. The receipts represent practically straight stamp sales only, Mr. Frank said.

In other years, salesmen are reserving sample rooms for use between Christmas and New Year's day. One hotel had no display rooms taken between the holiday in 1925 and had had three reserved by Tuesday noon. In the dining rooms too, business was brisk, they said. The one hotel reporting a slack had no pronounced decrease, but the manager believed things were not quite as good as last year. Naturally things are always slower at the end of the year than at any other time, they all agreed, but relatively this was a good season for most of the hotels.

FLORIDA BOOM HAS BURST--HEINEMANN

Captain Heinemann Describes Condition in Southern State

The Florida boom, working toward a climax for several years, has broken, and the state is rapidly approaching that normal condition which existed there only a few years ago, according to a letter recently received by Judge Fred V. Heinemann from his father, Capt. Fred Heinemann, who is spending the winter in Florida.

Land is no longer finding ready buyers, and homes rent for half and even less of the price they formerly did, he writes.

Part of his letter follows: "The boom bubble is busted. There are plenty of festering sores and aching sore hearts longing to return to the safe anchorage of the north. Labor is gradually simmering into idleness and the poor suckers soaked by the real estate gamblers find little encouragement in letting go of what they won in the lottery."

"Real estate, more of it for sale than ever but no buyers; residences rent for half and less of what they rented for last year. Florida is returning gradually to its old time status of 'skinning alligators in the summer and tourists in the winter.'"

"The lots staked out by the speculators are as plenty and promiscuous as ever but they look as solemnly lonesome as the markers in a national soldiers' cemetery. Gone are dreams of millions. Florida is down to the last sands of disillusionment, all of which is for the good of the state which will now grow in a sound, healthy substantial manner."

MIDNIGHT FROLIC SEATS SELLING FAST

A big crowd will enjoy the New Years Eve program at Fischer's Appleton theatre next Friday night from all indications. Seats are selling fast and plans rapidly being made to present a show that will be remembered as the best midnight frolic Appleton has yet witnessed. Vaudeville acts, novelties, noisemakers galore and a grand finale in which all will take part are some of the features. The frolic will begin at eleven o'clock and will last until about twelve thirty. Street cars will be waiting to take out-of-town patrons home.

Friday for the last times will be shown Thomas Meighan latest, "The Canadian," a virile drama of the Canadian wheatfields, a worthy "follow-up" of "Tin Gods" which is remembered as one of Tommy's best. This performance will last until 10:45, at which time the house will be opened to patrons of the midnight frolic.

OLD PRISONS SHOWN IN NEW FILM

These scenes were taken in the dungeons of a famous old prison at Havana, Cuba, and show the ancient torture implements and the old-fashioned cells.

"White Mice" is the story of love and revolution in a South American republic, and concerns the imprisonment of an old ex-president whose appearance would have rallied the people and overthrown the government. Jacqueline Logan is the star, with William Powell playing opposite. Lucius Henderson is cast as the persecuted president whose imprisonment causes all the complications.

Ernest Hilliard is entrusted with all the villainous deeds, while Reginald Sheffield and Richard Lee furnish the humor.

MILD WEATHER HELPED RURAL MAIL CARRIERS

Mild weather helped to lift the burden of Christmas mail for the rural carriers at the local postoffice, many of them declared. The snowy roads necessitates the use of horses and carts rather than automobiles for most of the carriers. Thus the hours of work were longer than in 1925 when the roads were clear. There was just one week when the weather was really cold, they said, and the mails were not particularly heavy at that time.

Some of the patrons were always ready to meet the mail men to help speed up the work, but others gave no thought to these small but valuable favors, they said. Everyone was considerate about receiving mail late in the day instead of at the usual hours, it was agreed.

BEAUTY HINTS

WILL WOMAN ALWAYS SERVE AS A DOMESTIC IN THE HOME

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

THE world goes marching on. The path of progress is marked by the graves of martyrs, so goes an old saying, and now it is woman who has been chosen for the role.

Close observers of progress tell us that no lasting reforms have ever been an abortion of true civilization. Instead, the advance of religion, science and all the "ologies" that have made for the betterment of man, have been of natural conception and birth.

We have had the renaissance, the age of exploration and settlement, then the age of invention and now it would appear to be the age of woman.

Just where in the future does civilization intend women to be? In the home? The agitation of the question is not a grandstand play rehearsed by the lady in question. The heavens and struggles in the economic world are not woman-made—or man-made. They are a natural result of other economic changes that have gone before, and conditions in which we live.

Our chief concern is with the future

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

When the door opened and two plain clothes detectives entered, Bob Hathaway was standing beside Faith's chair, his hand protectively on her shoulder.

"Mr. Robert Hathaway?" the taller and heavier of the two men boomed.

"I'm Hathaway. It was I who telephoned police headquarters after I discovered my wife's body."

"I'm Detective Farrell and this is Detective Boyd," the big man motioned to his companion. "The chief himself is over at the scene of the crime. He told me to bring you along to the house for questioning, Mr. Hathaway. Who's the young lady?" he added with a keen glance at Faith. "Don't reckon this is the—er—bride, is it?"

"This is Miss Faith Lane, Farrell."

Bob answered curtly. "She is a sister of the—of Miss Cherry Lane. There won't be any need for her to go along."

Cherry had been—there—and told him she wasn't going to marry him. He—he wants to see us—" But she could not keep it up. She turned and hid her face on Bob's shoulder and began to cry gaspingly.

"Looka here, Madame," Detective Farrell began abruptly. "You might as well—"

"I'm sorry to interfere," Dr. Atkins pushed forward, frowning directly into the eyes of the angry detective. "But any more excitement may be fatal to my patient, Mrs. Lane. You can see for yourself that she knows nothing whatever of her daughter's disappearance, and I will not permit her to be bullied and harassed by police questionings."

"Police?" Mrs. Lane screamed.

Four Makers Of Pictures; But They Don't Act--They're The Directors

BY DAN THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—This story deals with the lives of four men whose great pictures have carried them beyond the heights of their stardom and actresses. They are the directors.

Dean of all is D. W. Griffith—under whose banner many celebrities have risen from obscurity. Griffith spent his early years touring with a cheap stock company. For several years his company played one or two-night stands and were lucky to eat regular meals.

Later he appeared on Broadway—always as actor's goal. It was then that he wrote his idea of a scenario for the old Biograph company. They paid him $25. He wrote other scenarios and then started to direct, being one of the pioneers to found Hollywood as a film center. He recently returned "home" after spending seven years in the east.

AN IDEA AT LUNCH

One day in 1915, Cecil B. DeMille and Jesse Lasky went to lunch together. They decided to form a partnership for a venture into the motion picture industry—then a mere "babe." Prior to that day, DeMille had been an actor—and not a very good one—often tramping the streets of Manhattan for weeks in search of work.

DeMille came west in 1913, rented an old barn and started production on his first picture, "The Squaw Man." He was the first to produce a feature length picture.

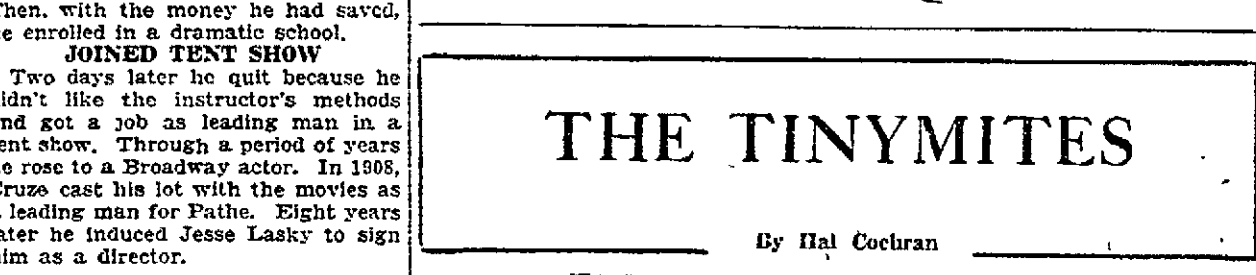

James Cruze literally stepped from a fishing boat to the stage in San Francisco some years ago. Cruze wanted to be an actor, but he couldn't get work because he had had no experience. So he worked as a waiter and on a salmon boat for three years. Then, with the money he had saved, he enrolled in a dramatic school.

JOINED TENT SHOW

Two days later he quit because he didn't like the instructor's methods and got a job as leading man in a tent show. Through a period of years he rose to a Broadway actor. In 1905, Cruze cast his lot with the movies as a leading man for Faith. Eight years later he induced Jesse Lasky to sign him as a director.

Fifteen years ago, Edwin Carewe was a hobo. It was while "bumming" through Kansas that he met Jim Tully, now a noted author. One rainy night the two of them caught a west-bound freight out of a Kansas siding. That long ride under box cars was though unknown to him—to start him on his career as a motion picture director.

The two vagabonds landed in Los Angeles without a dime between them. Carewe had had some stage experience so he went to Hollywood and talked the Blaney Brothers into signing him as a director. Then he drew some salary in advance so the two of them could eat.

THESE FOUR DIRECTORS OF MOVIES WEREN'T BORN WITH GOLD SPOONS IN THEIR MOUTHS. THEY ARE: EDWIN CAREWE AND D. W. GRIFFITH (ABOVE), AND CECIL B. DEMILLE AND JAMES CRUZE.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

THE little fish that Clowny caught up to big bonfire was brought and all the Tinymites gathered round to watch him scale the thing. His pocket knife was put in play and scales went flying every way. Then Clowny said, "A lot of wood is what you all can bring."

That task, of course, was not so much and soon a pile of sticks and such was stacked up by the bonfire so's to keep the blaze alive. The fish was very soft to fix, and Clowny picked up two long sticks just like the kind with which a tomboy plays.

He spread another stick across and then he started out to boss. "I'll do the fancy cooking, and the rest of you can eat." "Hurray!" the others shouted loud. "We're sure that we will all feel proud if you can cook that little fish into a dandy treat."

They settled down around the blaze as Clowny said, "Of all the ways to cook a fish, I rather like this camp-fire way the best." He then produced a piece of string across the limb above the fire, surprising all the rest.

The little fish was hanging down in heat that rose up from the ground, and shortly came an odor that they all add smelled real good. The flames began to die away and Clowny shouted, "The rest of you get busy now and put on some more wood."

Then after half an hour of fun, the fish was cooked and nicely done. Then Clowny gently took it down and said, "It smells real sweet." He gave each Tinymite his share. They all said "Thanks," and then there, they all showed they were hungry as they started in to eat.

SISTER Mary's KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST — Grape fruit sections, cereal, thin cream, salt cod-fish hash, toasted corn bread, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON — Cream of spinach soup, croûton, Boston baked beans, Boston brown bread, orange soufflé, milk, tea.

DINNER — Breaded veal cutlets, tomato sauce, baked sweet potatoes, beet and cabbage salad, vanilla ice cream with butterscotch sauce, crisp nut cookies, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

The idea of serving a sauce over plain ice cream is worth keeping in mind for an emergency dessert. We sometimes hesitate to serve guests with cream from the corner drug store, feeling that it's a bit too obvious. But if a home-made sauce is added, we've had our own "finger in the pie" and feel better about it. If the sauce is put on to cook as soon as dinner is started, it can be made and cooled slightly before wanted.

BUTTERSCOTCH SAUCE

One cup light brown sugar, 1 tablespoon molasses, 1 teaspoon cornstarch, 1/4 cup butter, 1/4 cup water.

Mix sugar and cornstarch. Add molasses and water and bring to the boiling point. Boil over the fire until a few drops tested in cold water form a soft ball. Add butter and cook over boiling water, stirring frequently until the mixture is perfectly smooth and the butter is thoroughly incorporated. Cool slightly before serving.

Household Hints

BAKED POTATOES

Baking potatoes takes a considerable amount of gas. You can lessen the time required to bake a potato by first boiling it for 15 minutes and then placing it in the oven to bake.

KEEPS PICKLES FRESH

Put a little box of mustard and horseradish in the mouth of a pickle jar and the contents will not mold.

DINING ROOM SHOULD LOOK BEST AT PARTY

DURING the season's holidays, there is always some excuse for a tea party. Perhaps it is for the young daughter of the family who is at home from her first term at school or for the married daughter who has come to spend her vacation with the family. At any rate, it is an occasion for giving an extra polish to the silver, taking down from the cupboard the prettiest china, and dressing up the dining room table with its very best cover.

The dining room is really the center around which the party revolves and it should look its best. If the wintery afternoon happens to be gray and forbidding, draw the shades and use lighted candles on the table. The table centerpiece should be of flowers artistically arranged in a low bowl, so that they will not obscure the view. Or if flowers are not easily procurable, a lovely arrangement can be made of green ferns with some white berries or mistletoe. To give color to the centerpiece, use tall rose colored candles in silver candlesticks.

LUNCHEON

The lunch should be simple but very dainty. Hot coffee or chocolate or both, for the beverage, with sandwiches and fancy little cakes, as many varieties as desired.

Open or uncovered sandwiches are very popular now and they add a very interesting touch to the tea table. A specially attractive dainty sandwich is made by spreading rounds of white bread with cream cheese, sprinkling the surface with finely chopped sweet green pepper and placing a slice of maraschino cherry in the center. There are an infinite number of combinations for these open sandwiches. If the Christmas colors happen to be desirable, pimento and sweet pickles fit in very nicely. Red raspberry jam gives the right touch of red, and makes a delicious morsel, particularly when a border of stiffly whipped cream is piped around the edge.

For sweets, flaky pastry is often used for a foundation. It can be cut before baking into all sorts of shapes and sizes and spread with all sorts of mixtures. Apricot jam or butter is a luscious spread, a bit of soft custard sprinkled generously with nuts or coconut is another. A recipe is given below for an easily made flaky pastry to use for making these sweet sandwiches.

From all of the hundreds of kinds of little cakes, we have selected two simple varieties. They are equally delicious and have the advantage of working so well together. For one the whites of the eggs are used, and for the other the yolks. They may be spread with any sort of frosting or even simply decorated with whipped cream and fancy little candies.

FLAKY PASTRY

One cup shortening, three cups flour, one teaspoon salt, water.

Cut shortening into flour (previously sifted with salt) rather coarsely. Divide mixture into two parts. To half, add enough water to make stiff paste. Roll out on floured board to about one-quarter inch thick. In center spread the other half of shortening-flour mixture. Fold over the four edges to meet in the center. Roll out gently to about one-half inch thick. Fold over and roll again. Repeat several times (Chill slightly in the refrigerator before shaping into shells).

ALMOND CAKES (WHITE)

One-half cup butter, one cup sugar, one-half cup milk, one and one-half cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, four egg whites, one teaspoon almond flavoring, chopped blanched almonds.

Cream butter sugar. Sift dry ingredients and add alternately with the milk. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and flavoring. Fill small muffin pans half full and sprinkle surface with sugar and finely chopped almonds. Bake in moderate oven until browned lightly on surface.

ALMOND CAKES (YELLOW)

One-quarter cup butter, one-half cup sugar, four egg yolks, one-quarter cup milk, one-quarter teaspoon salt, seven-eighths cup flour, one and one-third teaspoon baking powder, shredded almonds powdered sugar.

Cream butter, add sugar gradually, egg yolks well beaten, milk and flour mixed with baking powder. Put in paper cases or tiny muffin pans. Sprinkle with shredded almonds and powdered sugar. Bake at 375 degrees Fahrenheit 20 minutes.

KAUKAUNA-LITTLE CHUTE-KIMBERLY

NEARBY
TOWNSMISSIONARY TELLS OF KIDNAPING BY
CHINESE BANDITSMiss Lydia Koebbe Describes Abductions in Letter to Friend

Special to Post-Crescent
Forest Junction—A letter written by Miss Lydia Koebbe, one of three American missionaries who were held captive for three weeks last October by Chinese bandits, is being read with great interest here this week. It was dated at Chienki, Hunan province, China on Nov. 5, and is addressed to Miss Ida Diekvoest, an instructor at the Eau Claire state normal, who is spending the holiday recess at her home here.

The letter enlarges upon an Associated Press report circulated during the first week in October when the incident occurred. A large party of missionaries, on their way from Hankow to their stations at Shenchowfu, were attacked by bandits who carried off three Americans, Miss Minerva S. Weil and Carl H. Beck of the Reformed mission, and Miss Lydia Koebbe of the Evangelical mission.

NO SOLDIERS AVAILABLE

The journey up the river, the letter states, was undertaken after much uncertainty. There were no soldiers available as escorts, so the set out to overtake a convoy of 600 boats which were a day's journey ahead. But when within a mile of the escorted fleet, the party encountered so-called "soldiers of fortune" who relieved the missionaries of their valuables and took three of them on what Miss Koebbe terms an "extemporaneous expedition." The prisoners were held in four huts and marches were made only in the darkness. Rice and pumpkin constituted the meager ration. For ten days farmers along the line of march were compelled to unbar the doors of their homes to the captors and their captives. The last six days were spent in a secluded place in the close quarters afforded by the shelter of a mammoth rock. Rain, dampness, insufficient clothing and cover aggravated the discomforts. They were released upon payment of a ransom of $3,500 to the robber chief.

DESPERATE BANDITS

"We were held by desperate fellows," says Miss Koebbe, "who seemed to delight in their practices of intimidation. Sometimes they assured us that they wanted only our money (assuming we had some); then again they would say $100,000 or your lives. We were so glad they did not separate us for Mr. Beck, because of his commanding appearance, kept us from insults and assaults. We had fallen among these who are so unlike the Chinese whom we have known. Bandits are not Chinese, but fellows to be pitied for their misery as victims of circumstances."

Miss Koebbe is connected with Minerva Spreng Memorial Girls' school of the Evangelical church mission at Tunghen, Kweichow, China. Her home is at Grass Lake, Mich. She became acquainted with Miss Diekvoest, the recipient of the letter, when the two were students at North Western college at Naperville, Ill., more than six years ago.

The Appleton team did all its scoring in the first half while the Cubs made 7 of their markers during that period. Biesel caged two of the four baskets made by Kaukauna. Farwell and Miller caged one apiece. Farwell played a good game at guard and Biesel played a nice offensive game. Munster, Knelp and Bowers of the Coated team made two field goals apiece and did most of the pretty playing for that team.

CHICAGO MAROONS WALLOP LAWRENCE CAGERS, 32 TO 19

Briese, Heideman Star As Speedy Offense Of Maroon Piles Up Score

Blue Guard Scores 11 Points; Christophmen Play Y at Bay Thursday

Showing a lack of the fight and drive expected of a Blueclad squad, Coach George Christoph's Lawrence college cagers opened their 1926-27 season Tuesday evening by taking a 32-19 drubbing from Chicago University at Bartlett gymnasium, Chicago. The half ended with the Maroons leading by a score of 15-5. Briese, 1926 captain, was the only Lawrenton to play up to his usual standard. His guarding stopped the Maroons' offense short several times while his long shots scored most of the Blue points. His floorwork also was better than any man on the Chicago squad.

The Maroon defense crumbled wide open at times but the Blues were never in a position to take advantage of the openings. Hank, substituting for Sundt showed good future center possibilities and Hillman, a guard, and Pertz and Bent, forwards, also worked well while they were in the lineup. The Maroons used a short criss-cross attack that bewildered the Blues throughout the game and enabled the Midway five to slip under the hoop for many hot shots. Kaplan and Zimmermann caged several markers from directly under the basket as did Capt. Sackett.

The Blue defense was good most of the game, though the offensive work was only fair. Constant fouling in an effort to stop the speedy Maroons, however, caused the Blue guards to ease up with the result that several quick drives that should have been stopped went through to baskets.

Briese scored 11 of the 19 Lawrence points, and with Heideman, started for the Blueblues. Zimmermann caged five ringers for Chicago. The starting lineup:

Lawrence—Heideman and Clark, forwards Sundt, center; Briese and Grove, guards.

Chicago—Kaplan and Zimmermann, forwards Sackett, center; Hoerger and McDonald, guards.

Monday evening the Blueblues battled the strong Chicago Y. M. C. A. college on the Green Bay "Y" floor in the first intercollegiate cage battle ever staged at the Bay.

EAST MOGULS RULE ON SHIFT, HUDDLE

Grid Officials Want 3-Second Halt Before Ball Is Snapped

New York—(AP)—Eastern football officials agree that something should be done about the shift and huddle.

Meeting in annual session until early Tuesday morning the Eastern Association of Intercollegiate Football Officials devoted much of its time to criticism of the huddle as slowing up play and of the shift as making it difficult for officials to determine legality. As a result, a suggestion will be made to the rules committee that on all shifts and huddles play after the players have become set they remain in their rearranged positions for three seconds before the ball is snapped.

The eastern officials went the Western Conference one second better in their suggestion, the westerners having decreed a two second halt.

If the rules committee agrees with the officials in another suggestion referees and umpires will be given wider latitude in imposing penalties for unfair play not otherwise provided for in the rules. Rule 21, section 9, now provides a five-yard penalty and the officials would see it amended to provide a "proper penalty."

Limitations placed on the forward pass during the 1926 season including a five-yard penalty for a second incomplete pass during one series of four downs, were not effective, in the opinion of the officials. A suggestion will go forward to the rules makers that the

"Show-or-Place Joe!"

The boys who flock around parimutuel windows and slide their dough over the sill on noses of multitudinous sure-shots will peek up their ears and focus the old field glass on the fairways instead of the oval.

Show-or-Place Joe isn't a jockey. Neither is he a pony. He's a golfer. It seems lately a whole wagonload of nicknames have come wandering away from the home-stretch to glue themselves on the ball hustlers of the tee. Witness, for instance, "Lighthorse Harry" Cooper.

Show-or-Place Joe is a young Italian professional with one check, dark eyes, raven hair and the whole ensemble is tagged—Signor Joseph Turnesa, Fairview Club, Philadelphia.

A bunch of pros were chewing the rap one day down at Seletto and I heard them refer to Mr. Turnesa in those race-horseish terms. I thought at the time someone had taken him for a cleaning in the paddock.

But now a summary of all the important events of the year shows where and how the dapper young pro merited his nickname.

Show-or-Place Joe played in all the major golfing events of 1926 and the tragedy of it is—he failed to win a single one of them. He finished either in second or third place. Hence the nickname.

WONDER MENTOR

DOC MEANWELL

Madison—Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, truthfully termed the "miracle-man of basketball," has established a remarkable record during his experience of tutoring the cage game at the Universities of Wisconsin and Missouri, whose terms are the only collegiate groups ever coached by the diminutive mentor. Coach Meanwell, who is now carrying his eighth year with the Badger basketball squad, is the inventor of the short pass-game and many clever tricks employed therein, which are at present used by numerous coaches, who have studied the Meanwell system.

Starting his career at the University of Wisconsin in 1911, Dr. Meanwell has been a member of the Badger athletic staff since, with the exception of a three year period from 1917 until 1920. During these years he was acting as athletic director and basketball coach at the University of Missouri, and serving in the United States Army.

TWIN CITY BOOSTERS PLAY PLYMOUTH QUINT

The Twin City Boosters, Neenah-Menasha pro cage squad, will entertain the strong Plymouth cagers at S. A. Cook armory New Years night. The Plymouth men nosed out the Boosters earlier in the season by a three-point margin in an overtime period game.

Existing limitation be changed or abolished.

A provision previously in effect but not now in the rules providing that an offense player touching a punted ball should be penalized five yards and a touchdown declared if the offense be committed within the ten yard line, the officials thought should be restored.

David L. Holtz (Brown) of New York was elected president of the association succeeding Walter D. Okeon of Lehigh.

GIRLS CHAMP RACE NEW EVENT ON CARD FOR P-C ICE MEET

At Least Five Girls Will Be Eligible to Race for New Silver Trophy

With a new event, the girls' Champion race, added to the program for the fifth annual Post-Crescent ice skating championship tournament, which will be held on Sunday, Jan. 16 at Jones park, bladesmen of Appleton and the Post-Crescent circulation territory will be able to take part in from two to four events during the day. Thirteen races are on the card, two for junior and intermediate boys, and junior and senior girls; three for senior men and the two Champion races.

The girls' Champion race, the new event, is open to any girl who has won a senior girls' race in the past meets whether it was a 220 or 330-yard dash. For instance, when both wins a senior race she is ineligible for that race the next year, though she can race in the other senior event which she did not win. The new event gives the girl who is eliminated from further competition in any one senior race by virtue of winning it, a chance for further real competition. This is especially true as she will race only winners of past senior girls race for the city girls title with a large silver cup as the prize for a victory.

As the two girls races are the 220 and 330, the Champion race will be a 440, the middle distance. Records on hand at the Post-Crescent show that four girls of Appleton are eligible for this year's champion race. They are Bertha Bell, winner of both the 220 and 330 for senior girls in 1924; Ella Nickash, who also won both events, taking the 220 in 1925 and the 330 in 1926; Esther Heiss, 220 winner in 1926 and Irene Heiss, 330 winner in 1925. One or two other girls may be eligible as the records of the 1923 meet, the first Post-Crescent tourney, are not available, but girls who won both events that year can enter the Champion race by getting in touch with the Skating Editor of the Post-Crescent and putting forth their proofs.

The men's Championship race, William Taylor, Percy Sharp, Clement Kitzinger and Joe Sharp are eligible, though only two of the men are in the city. These men carried off the honors from 1923 to 1926. The winner this year also is eligible if he desires to complete a hard day by racing an extra two miles. Winners of the 220 and 330 for senior girls this year also may enter the girls' championship race, if they desire, swelling the entry list to at least five girls.

Winners of senior men's events of the last few years were ruled out of the event for the next meet. This took away one race from the man who won an event but failed to win enough points to become champion, and lost him his chance to take a title next year as he would race twice against three for his rivals. This year it was decided that a winner of last year or the year before could again enter his event in the senior class unless he is a champion. Because of this Al Gosha who won the senior 440 last winter will be able to race in that event this year as well as in the 220 which he won in a previous year.

Winners of 1926 must advance to a higher class in the race which they have won. For instance, a winner of a junior 220 must race in the intermediate 220, though he can still race in the junior 440 if he has not won it, provided he still comes within the age limit. The 1927 meet will see Arthur Roemer, winner of the junior 220, racing in the intermediate class in that event, and Karl Roemer, winner of the junior 440, in the intermediate class in that event.

Intermediate boys of 1926 who must advance to the senior class in events which they won last year are John Jurek of Menasha in the 440 and the girls Ella Nickash and Esther Heiss, winners of the two senior events last year, enter the Champion race, though Miss Heiss also is eligible for the senior 330 which she has not yet won. Miss Nickash has won both senior events. In the junior girls class, Marie Buss, winner of both events must race with the seniors this year.

Entries in all events will close on Jan. 13. An entry blank appears on the program for Wednesday evening and will appear on that page every evening until Jan. 13. Skaters are urged to get their entries in as soon as possible in order to avoid the last minute rush and allow the meet to get off to a smoother start than ever before. Just fill in the coupon below V. in or bring it to the Skating Editor of the Post-Crescent. A list of winners of every event from 1924 on will appear soon, so that winners will be sure in which class they now must race.

STATE HIGH TITLES DECIDED IN MADISON

Milwaukee—(AP)—Madison will be the scene of the 1927 state interscholastic track swimming, tennis and skating championships meets, the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic association decided here Tuesday.

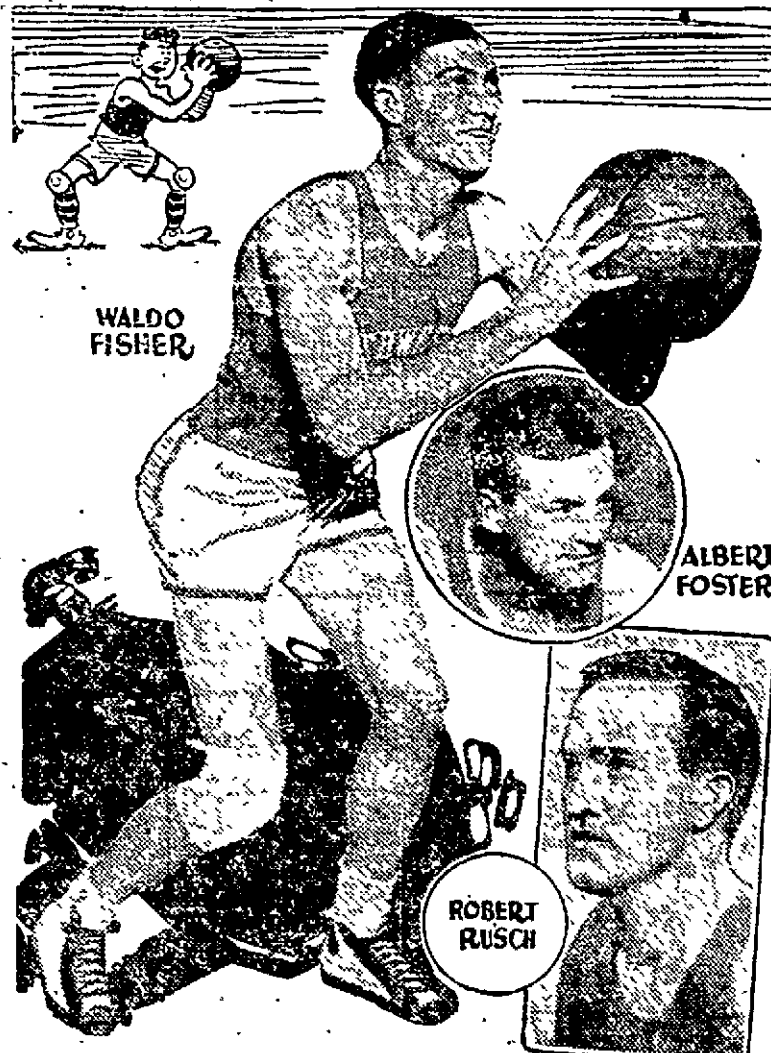

The board of control, governing body of the association, which met in reorganizing for 1927, selected V. G. Barnes of Madison as chairman. Principal F. V. Powell of Platteville was named treasurer.

The state track and field meet will be held at Madison May 21, the same weekend as the tennis and swimming meets. The state skating championship will be held there Jan. 22.

Chicago—(AP)—Midget Smith, New York and Ray Ryehell, Chicago, fought a draw (10).

Henry Lenard, Chicago, beat Joey Klein, Milwaukee (10).

PURPLE GRIDIRON STAR ALSO SHINES IN BASKETBALL

WALDO FISHER

Football and basketball have much in common as far as Waldo Fisher, star end of Northwestern's champion eleven, is concerned. He is the outstanding member of the cage squad at the Evanston institution and is certain to again shine at center or forward for the Purple. Two other members of last year's squad expected to make the team are Bobby Rusch, forward, and Foster, guard.

Sox Outfielder Sets New Double Play Mark

Boston—Despite the lively ball, a strong, accurate throwing arm is much to be prized by a big league outfielder.

Last season Ira Flagstead of the Boston Red Sox, broke a record that has stood for 25 years, by taking part in three double plays as an outfielder.

On one occasion, this Speaker of the Cleveland Indians figured in two double plays. As a matter of fact he hogged both of them, making the two play killings unmissed.

However, it was Flagstead who set a new American League record and tied the National League. Way back in 1905, Jack McCarthy of that organization, figured in a trio of them.

Flagstead established his record on April 13, Patriots' Day in Boston, in a game with the Philadelphia Athletics. He was stationed in center-field.

On two occasions, with runners on third, batters hit long drives to center-field on which the runners felt sure they could score after the catch. On each instance a perfect throw cut them down.

The third doubleplay was a trifle more unusual. In this play Flagstead got the hit and threw to Janey at third, who relayed to Herrera at second, getting the man there; when the runner on third tried to score during the operation, he was thrown out at the plate. Catcher Bischoff handling the ball.

Each play figured in saving the game, since Flagstead cut off three runs, while the best team could do was trim the Athletics by a one-run margin, 2-1.

Flagstead's career as an outfielder has been a most unusual one. He came to the Detroit Tigers in 1919 and stuck around for all of four years, doing bench duty most of the time.

After Ty Cobb was appointed manager, he decided that Flagstead wouldn't do and sent him to the Boston Red Sox.

Under Lee Fohl's direction, Flagstead took on a new lease of life as a different ball player and inside of two years was rated one of the best outfielders in the American League.

His batting has been on a par with his fielding.

Thus Cobb's inability to see Flagstead as a prospect cost the Detroit club an outfielder who could now be used to great advantage. He is the equal of any of the Tiger outfielders, and they are a classy lot.

JOHNSON PAYS TRIBUTE TO COBB AND SPEAKER

Washington—Walter Johnson alone remains of the "Big Four"—Cobb, Collins, Speaker and Johnson—that for 20 years did much to give the American League a superior prestige.

Johnson says that his arm feels so good he is certain he will be able to work at least three years more unless his underpinning suddenly gives way. "I am worried more about my legs than arm," is the way he put it.

He was asked whether Cobb was harder to fool than Speaker. "Can't really say," he said, "I don't remember ever fooling either of them," was his modest answer, characteristic of Johnson.

HORTONVILLE FIVE LOSES TO GRIMMS

Long Shots Beat Hortonville Squad, 20-16, on Reedsville Courts

Hortonville—The Hortonville City basketball team dropped a hard fought battle to the far-traveling Grimms Boosters at the American Legion hall at Reedsville Monday night, the final score being 20-16. The game was fast and clean throughout with the Grimms Boys blessed with plenty of luck with their long shots. Yost led the Hortonville attack with four field goals, Steffen dropped through three, and Maahs caged the remaining one. The defensive play of Oik, Dabareiner, and Maahs was the best seen on the Reedsville floor this season, while Yost's floor work and pivoting was the bright light of the Hortonville offense. The Logan twins played their usual good floor game but were guarded closely by the Hortonville guards. The score at the end of the half was 13-6 in favor of Grimms.

TWO AMATEUR SPORT BOARDS OPEN SCRAP

America's Athletic Supremacy Threatened by Internal Battles

New York—(AP)—America's traditional supremacy in international athletics Tuesday was threatened by internal strife over control of the National Olympic association.

Voting unanimously to withdraw from the association, the National Amateur Athletic federation Monday struck another blow in a conflict with the Amateur Athletic union which broke out afresh recently in Washington, D. C.

Alleged domination of America's participation in the 1928 Olympic games by a minority group controlled by the A. A. U. was the basis for the federation's action but the feud between the rival factions dates back several years.

The federation calls for a more intensive development of its work along state lines and forecasts conflict with the A. A. U. in its own field. A statement issued by the federation's executive committee in explanation of its withdrawal announced that the A. A. U. has invited the federation "to play a part" to thousands of skilled teachers and supervisors in school and college activities.

The statement gives two major counts upon which the federation based its withdrawal: Changes in the Olympic association, constituted in 1927 which deprived the national organizations that comprised the federation of any influence in relation to America's part in the Olympic game and put control in the hands of one member of the association, the A. A. U. Centralization of such control.

The statement goes on to say that there was much criticism of the administration inefficiencies in connection with living and training quarters and conduct of the Olympic games, which came to a head after the 1920 games and led to action to "organize the Olympic association on a democratic basis."

APPLETON BOYS STAR IN MIAMI'S VICTORY

Features by the work of three Appleton boys, the Miami University football team ended its 1926 season Monday afternoon at Havana, Cuba, 23-0 in an uninteresting game. The Cuba Cubans made one first down against Cub Buck's squad. Cliff Courtney and Ted Bleier, former Appleton high and Lawrence graders, played in the backfield for Miami and Red Ashman, a third old Appleton and Lawrence grad, played an end position.

Ashman had been ineligible earlier in the season and was used at end and halfback on the second squad, where he played stellar ball. The Miami squad was undefeated this year, the first grad season at the school, which was completed last year. Most of the teams played were fresh squads of the large southern schools.

GREECE CHALLENGER FOR DAVIS NET CUP

New York—Its philosophers having been able to hold their own with America for several generations at least, Greece has finally decided upon a policy of expansion and will henceforth seek its glory in the noble field of tennis while racket fans the world over await its debut.

Through Pan M. Pappadopoulos, Greece has filed a challenge with the United States for the Davis cup election to play the preliminary rounds in the European zone.

Julian S. Myrick, chairman of the U. S. L. T. A., accepted it and now Greece becomes the thirty-first nation to write its name on the Davis cup aspirants.

WAUPACA COUNTY

NEW LONDONERS ARE KEENLY INTERESTED IN WINTER SPORTS

Proposal to Organize Sports in City Is Under Consideration

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Vacationers, hockey players and general run of skiers, skaters and coasters are this winter more than usually interested in winter sports. The depth of the snow, the sparkling winter weather, and most of all the deadliness of winter monotony in a city of this size has something to do with the general feeling that New London just as well as cities further north may enjoy the sports which in other localities are not merely indulged in by youngsters but are considered smart.

People approached upon the subject feel the need of organized sport. Said one woman who has grown boys and girls:
"It is time that we mothers and fathers took a hand in building up something worth while for our children. Boys and girls of high school age have nothing with which to entertain themselves except bowling. This sport is good, of course, but it does not take the players out into the air, and besides it is much more expensive for the average youth to indulge in every day or night that he may choose to play. But skating, skiing, coasting—these are open air sports free for the taking. Why cannot our city officials and our civic leaders provide amusement places for such entertainments? Christmas vacation is here and there is no skating, there is not a hill in the city set aside for the amusement of our children. There is no entertainment of any sort in which our children may indulge. Why?"

The answer to this question was given Monday by Mayor Wendland who stated that in the rush of clearing streets the city employees have had no time in which to clear out the pipes of the city reservoir which have become clogged with sand. Enough water is at hand to provide for the usual needs but not enough to permit any excesses at this time, according to the mayor. He further stated that the public fountains will be flooded at the earliest date possible.

Meanwhile children are providing themselves with private rinks on the rivers. This sort of skating, however, always has its hazards, and many feel it unsafe to allow young children freedom of river skating. Youthful skiers are trudging the two miles to the pocket farm south of town for the sake of the skating which may be found there. There are no artificial jumps but it is, according to the youngsters, a lot better than nothing.

A party of young ladies including Miss Dorothy Sterne, Mrs. David Vandevanter, Miss Ruth, and Miss Myrtle Wilke and others made use of a snowmobile on Tuesday afternoon which conveyed them to Little Mosquito Hill for a session of coasting. The jaunt was brought to a pleasant close late in the afternoon with a tea served at one of the restigants.

Suggestions have been made by influential members of New London society that the golf grounds might be put to all year service if preparations and proper means were provided for winter sports. A small membership would offset expenses for the erection of a ski jump, snowmobile slide, and in the event that a club house were ever built it could be made to pay for itself by members of the sports club. The golf grounds present an ideal situation, everything being naturally provided for beauty and the general requirements of winter sports.

Are You Fixing up the Living Room?

Begin The New Year Right! Fix Up Your Home!

First on your list of New Year's resolutions—fix up your home. Then, though the winds of January play havoc outside, you will be warm and comfortable within. Add a Windsor or cozy armchair. Replace your worn living room suite. Let new living room furniture grace your home. The separate pieces or matched suites you desire are to be found here in profusion—displaying grace and good taste in design, which they will immediately convey to the rooms they adorn. Their prices will prove a pleasant surprise.

ZIMMERMAN SAYS HE'LL MOP UP HURLEY

Wholesale bootlegging, wide open gambling, underground run-running and beer hauling and the brazen operations of underworld dives, the story declares, brought about the government's attack upon Hurley, the Tia Juana or the north.

"Wide old Hurley—its been running wide open for half a century, boasted the vice ring was too well organized to be broken; that its 'tip-off' system was 100 per cent efficient and that its generosity was so great that there wasn't very much to fear."

REPORTERS DISGUISED

Then the newspaper's investigators, the story relates, dropped into Hurley—just a couple of "lumberjacks" on their way into the woods for another winter.

"They were greeted on silver street by drunks who floundered about the main thoroughfares at all hours of the day and night, and who came lunging out of door ways, often times none too neatly assisted by a husky bouncer. Up and down Silver-st, the main thoroughfare of the town, the investigators found the same old story of two saloons and three story buildings. From one to the other they found the saloons jammed against each other, player pianos thumped away 21 hours a day and along this little main street came the echo of clinking silver dollars on the 'trap' tables and the clink of playing pieces.

"They found two shifts of bartenders and gamblers at work in the majority of places, for saloon doors in Hurley have no keys. Half-faced women lounged about the bar rooms."

OFFICIALS INVESTIGATE

Evidence gathered by the investigators was presented to William H. Dougherty, who recently resigned as United States district attorney; Stanley M. Ryan, former assistant who succeeded Dougherty; and Ray J. Nye, federal prohibition director. A subsequent inquiry directed by Mr. Nye followed, according to the newspaper, and resulted in padlocking the 29 establishments.

"The government cannot interest itself in the gambling, that exists in Hurley," Mr. Dougherty declared, "and it cannot take part in cleaning up the houses of ill-fame. These are matters for local officials and the state. But we can and will stop the flow of liquor if conditions are such as described."

"Mr. Nye asserted that 'There is just one way to clean up Hurley and that is to shut the place down. If we make raids and arrests as in the past, there will be others to take the place of those who are sent to jail and Hurley will keep on, just as it has in the past,' Mr. Nye asserted.

BUSINESS GOES ON

"Hurley—(P)—The padlock process served here Tuesday on 29 saloons did not exactly bring a circus but it didn't stop business Tuesday night or Wednesday morning in this town which, which Governor-elect Zimmerman threatens 'to make a part of Wisconsin.' Drunks flowed since the padlocks were served, not with reckless abandon but in a manner which indicates the saloon keepers intend to reap all the harvest they can before the padlock goes on the doors. Hurley Wednesday is like the boxer who goes groggy in the eighth round and hopes to hang on until the tenth and final round is finished."

ARREST BRITON AS SPY ON FRENCH AVIATION

Paris—(P)—Vivian Stranders, a former British officer under arrest here, has admitted the police say that for the last year he acted as a spy on French aviation for the German espionage service. Stranders was apprehended last week as he was about to leave Paris for Germany. He is said to have told the authorities he visited the French capital seven times in the last 12 months carrying important information back to Berlin.

France also had a spy case last December when three Englishmen and a girl, Mathe Morent, alias Marcel Monseu, artist's model and parachute jumper, were arrested. It was charged that they, too, were after French aviation secrets. The accused stuck to their story that they were merely after business secrets. They were fined and given sentences ranging from six months to three years.

LONG DISTANCE PHONES FROM U. S. TO LONDON

New York—(P)—Persons in New York and London soon will be able to talk to each other over ordinary house telephone at a cost of 25¢ a minute. Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., in a statement that the service will be opened to the public early in January, said that as soon as it proves practical to do so, it will be extended to other sections of the country. The charge will be 25¢ for a three minute conversation and 25¢ for each additional minute. There will be a report charge of 10¢ if the telephone number, but not the designated party is reached.

"Considering the advantages of telephone communication and the number of words that can be transmitted," said Mr. Gifford, "this will be a relatively cheap method of communication between New York and London."

The service between New York and London will be restricted to the hours of 8:30 in the morning and 8 o'clock at night.

PASTOR-PICTURES CIVILIZATION AS PLEASURE DRUNK

Milwaukee—(P)—Modern civilization finds its most typical expression in the picture of a man in a raccoon coat, driving a high powered automobile, slightly intoxicated and usually running over somebody, believes Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr, pastor of the Dethol Evangelical church, Detroit. Dr. Niebuhr addressed the first evening session of the National Christian Student conference Tuesday night.

Devotion to power, to comfort and the sensual pleasures of life, and the idealistic theory that the group can do no wrong was cited by Dr. Niebuhr as the greatest present day barrier to the progress of Christianity.

"When a man feels his self-esteem slipping, he buys a bigger car and steps on the gas," Dr. Niebuhr declared.

"We worship our bodies. We sublimate them. We feed them. We pillow them in luxury. Human ingenuity is exhausting every resource to provide new physical comforts, edifying the sensual, developing a Phallic cult. At every move there is shame and every chance movie actor a symbol."

WIRE TICKS

New York—(P)—We get happiness from doing our duty. Further happiness from doing a little more than is necessary and from doing things as near right as we can," says President Coolidge in a New Year's message to boy and girl scouts.

Chicago—Things are getting better. There have been only 333 murders here this year. Last year there were 394.

New York—An optimist might find consolation in the number of pessimists. The Times says that 20 persons representing a cross-section of the financial community were asked whether they were bulls or bears in 1926, and 13 said they were bears.

SPECIAL HEARSE BUILT FOR LATE JAP EMPEROR

Tokio—(P)—Rintaro Nishimura, whose family for many generations has constructed caskets and hearses for use at imperial funerals is coming to Tokio from Kyoto with 50 master craftsmen to build a hearse which will bear the body of the late Emperor Yoshihito to its grave. The funeral vehicle is to be a picturesque one and will resemble that used for Emperor Meiji in 1912. Nishimura said the hearse will have the appearance of a great enclosed cart and will have two wheels each five feet in diameter. In the hubs of the wheels, musical attachments will be placed and they will play funeral dirges as the hearse moves. The hearse will cost about $50,000. It will be completed in about a month.

PICTURE SERVICE OF TRACTION CO.

Window Display Shows What W. T. L. H. and P. Co. Does for Community

A window display in the show windows of the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power company depicting in miniature some of the services rendered to the public by the company has been attracting a lot of attention. The display includes an electric train which operates on a large circular track.

This train represents the street car service between Appleton and the surrounding cities. The small train is operated by electricity and automatically stops at a box signal when the light is red. When the signal changes to green it goes forward again. In one corner of the window a reproduction of the power plant has been built with the transmission lines carrying the power to all parts of the country.

Small trees and roadways have been included in the display and a small bus is placed on one of the roads to represent the bus service given by the company. A small truck is shown hauling coal to the power station to be used in generating the electricity.

The window display was designed by H. B. Hallett, head of the sales department. To supplement the window display a printed card pleading best efforts for service by the company is included. The pledge follows:

"1927. This company and its employees offer as a pledge for the Fox River Valley, their best efforts in rendering such gas, electric and transportation service as will be credit to the community in its building of greater industries and better homes for a greater Fox River Valley."

CONFUSING PRICE TREND AT OPENING

Initial Losses and Gains Evenly Divided, Auto Shares Downward

New York—(P)—Confusing price movements marked the opening of Wednesday's stock market with initial losses and gains about evenly divided. Hudson Motors continued in upward, moving counter to the general downward trend of the automobile shares. Oil stocks were steady but profit-taking developed in the dividend-paying stocks, including Atchafalpa and Baltimore and Ohio.

The strong resistance shown by some of the leading stocks to speculative offerings in the early dealings encouraged a resumption of constructive operations despite fears that money rates might be tightened still further as the year draws to a close. High-priced stocks, particularly the railroad equipment, made the most showing. Baldwin quickly jumped 2 points and substantial gains were recorded by Pullman, U. S. Steel, Case Threshing Machine was lifted nearly 1 point by a report of a dividend action or a stock split up. Disappointment of a declaration of only the usual year end extra dividend, however, turned a shoulder lower.

The window display was designed by H. B. Hallett, head of the sales department. To supplement the window display a printed card pleading best efforts for service by the company is included. The pledge follows:

"1927. This company and its employees offer as a pledge for the Fox River Valley, their best efforts in rendering such gas, electric and transportation service as will be credit to the community in its building of greater industries and better homes for a greater Fox River Valley."

NEW 'PHONE RATES TO LESSEN CHARGE FOR LONGER CALLS

Telephone Costs for Calls to Nearby Towns Will Remain
Almost Same

New telephone toll rates announced by the Wisconsin railroad commission Monday will have little effect on the charges for calls to nearby towns, but will substantially decrease the rates to points farther away, according to F. N. Belanger, district manager of the Wisconsin Telephone Co. The new schedule tends to equalize the rates, he said. Charges to points less than 155 miles away are often slightly increased but this additional rate will be not more than 5 cents for station to station calls and 15 cents for person to person calls. The rates were put into effect Monday.

Reduced rate hours have been advanced to 7 o'clock at night instead of 8:30, the hour set in the last schedule of rates issued in 1919. The earlier hour will tend to smooth out the flow of traffic from the close of the business day to 8:30 when greater reductions are made. It is hoped, thus avoiding the rush of business later in the evening. To popularize long distance calling for social purposes was another reason for the change.

A reduction of approximately 25 per cent will be made from the day station to station rate on calls received between 7 o'clock and 8:30 in the evening, and of about 50 per cent from $30 in the evening to $15 in the morning. However, the discounts apply only to calls of which the day rate is 40 cents or more with a minimum reduced rate of 25 cents. This means that a charge of at least 25 cents will be made for each long distance call.

CONGESTED SOME CENTERS
Unsatisfactory service conditions were the cause of the new schedule and the discontinuing of the old midnight discount. Mr. Belanger stated. Traffic was congested in the larger toll centers after 12 o'clock when extra operators had to be employed to take care of the greater number of calls. Practically the same discount of about 50 per cent will now be made on calls placed after 8:30 in the evening.

Charges may be reversed on station to station calls where the rate is 25 cents or more under the new schedule. Formerly the person to person rate was put on all calls where the charges were to be reversed.

Of the 23 cities in Wisconsin often called through the Appleton exchange, 11 will have the same rate, three will be reduced, and nine will be increased slightly. Mr. Belanger found in a check made of the old and new toll rates Tuesday. Those points to which the rates will be the same are: Fond du Lac, Green Bay, Ripon, Milwaukee, Seymour, Sheboygan, Two Rivers, Waupaca, Kaukauna, Hortonville, New London and Chilton. A decrease of 10 cents will be in effect on station to station calls to Ashland, and of 5 cents to Oshkosh and Plymouth. Increases of 5 cents were announced for Clintonville, Oconto, Rhinelander, Stevens Point and Sturgeon Bay. The station to station rate to Madison will remain the same but the person to person rate will be increased 5 cents.

This schedule of toll rates was put into effect in most of the states and for interstate traffic Nov. 1, Mr. Belanger said. When the 1919 schedule was decided, it was believed that it would be satisfactory but its use has shown that greater equalization was necessary he continued. The manager believed that the new rates would be satisfactory to the public.

SEEK DATA ON GOODS MADE IN OUTAGAMIE CO.

Information concerning manufactured goods of Outagamie Co., such as food, clothes and conveniences, has been requested of Hugh G. Corbett, secretary of the chamber of commerce, by Gladys Stillman, assistant leader of the Home Economic extension department of the University of Wisconsin. Miss Stillman writes that the information is for the women of the state, most of whom are ignorant as to the manufacturers of their state. The information, gathered from all parts of the state, will be used for the first time at the "Farmers' Short course" at Madison in February. It probably will be presented in a map of Wisconsin, showing where each product is made.

The letter from Miss Stillman asks the local lumber to list the industries of the county, names of the firms and their address, and what each manufactures. Firms making food, clothing and labor saving devices will receive special attention.

FIND VIOLATIONS OF GIRLS' HOUR LAW

Merchants Permitted Women to Work More Than 8 Hours
a Day, Inspector Finds

A quite general violation of the law limiting the hours which women may be employed was found in Appleton stores during the Christmas shopping season, according to Miss Sylvia M. Saethjen, a deputy from the industrial commission. Most of the violations were found in stores which remained open evenings prior to Christmas, she said. In fact she found violations of the law in almost all the stores that were open after 6 o'clock.

No arrests were made but employers were notified of the violations in some instances and warned they must change their schedules to conform with the law. It was explained that the penalty for violation of the law is a fine of from $10 to $100 for each day and each instance of violation. The manager or employment officer in charge of the women incurs the penalty as well as the employer or employing company.

Some of the employers, it was found, were under the impression that if the girls were not employed more than 48 hours during the entire week they would not be liable and they believed that by relieving their girls on Christmas day they would be meeting the requirement of the law. It was pointed out, however, that if any part of a woman's work is done before 6 a. m. or after 6:30 p. m. on more than one day of the week she must not be permitted to work more than eight hours in any one day during that week nor more than a total of 48 hours during the entire week. It was found in several instances that girls were working more than eight hours in a day, although the total for the week did not exceed 48 hours.

The San Diego Zoological Society breeds sea lions for sale, and has shipped 57 to different parts of the world this year.

ROSA CAN'T FIND ANY REAL "LIES" IN TAX CATECHISM

Defeated Candidate for United States Senate Writes U.
W. Head

Madison—(AP)—Declaring that he had read the Taxation Catechism compiled by Professor Ford H. MacGregor, Charles D. Rosa, former member of the senate tax commission and defeated candidate for United States senator in the general election, said he found nothing in it which could be fairly called "lies."

Mr. Rosa made his statement in a letter to Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin here. Governor John J. Blaine had previously characterized the catechism as a "hodge-podge of lies, half-truths, mis-information and misrepresentation" in a letter to President Frank.

The catechism was compiled by Prof. MacGregor at the request of officers of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities of which he is secretary.

Mr. Rosa's statement follows in part: "I was a member of the Wisconsin Tax commission from May, 1921, to October, 1926. Hence I should be familiar, presumably, with the facts treated in Prof. Ford MacGregor's Tax Catechism, which has been recently so caustically criticized by the Governor. I assume, since that criticism was in part addressed to you, that you may be interested in my judgment of such Catechism."

"I have read the Catechism carefully, and find nothing in it which could, in fairness, be called 'lies.' Neither are there any misstatements of fact concerning taxation, public finance, or the political history involved which are of enough importance to materially affect the main contentions of the Catechism. There are some inaccuracies. As pointed out by Dr. Frank, in a letter to the press, insurance companies are not taxed on 'gross earnings,' though 'gross premiums' are an element involved. In fact it would take a treatise as long as the whole Catechism to tell how insurance companies are taxed and not taxed since the enactment of the so-called 'reciprocal insurance law' in 1915. The manipulation of those taxes would make a sordid volume. It is also true that a portion of fire insurance taxes are returned to 'localities maintaining a certain standard fire departments. Professor MacGregor also failed to mention that about 5 per cent. of the total railroad tax is a tax on dock property forming a link between railroad and lake transportation, and is returned to the few lake cities in which located. However, the case against the state absorbing railroad taxes might have been made even stronger by stating that more than $2,500,000.00 of the annual railroad tax is in reality a common school tax, but it has all been kept by the state and spent for other purposes, and the common schools have been robbed of that amount each year."

"But after all inaccuracies have been taken into account, the indictment of the Catechism, that not state expenditures have increased enormously since 1920 and such fact has been hidden under a system of financing the state from special taxes, still remains unaffected and unanswerable."
